Recent Development: COVID-19 Pandemic

AIIB Response to the COVID-19 Pandemic

The COVID-19 pandemic has had and continues to have an adverse impact on the global economy and on the individual economies of AIIB members. AIIB members continue their efforts to contain the COVID-19 pandemic and to mitigate the risks of long-lasting, structural harm to their economies. Developing economies, especially those with weak health care infrastructure, vulnerable macroeconomic or financial sector fundamentals or a high dependence on tourism, commodities exports or remittances, required support from the international financial community to respond to and contain the COVID-19 pandemic.

As part of a coordinated international response to counter the COVID-19 pandemic, AIIB has worked closely with other international financial institutions to create a network of support options, especially for the most vulnerable economies. Based on feedback from public and private sector partners, the Bank's immediate assistance was and continues to be required in three key areas: (i) immediate health care sector needs (including support for emergency public health responses and for the long-term sustainable development of the health care sector), (ii) economic resilience, mainly where clients require financing to supplement government measures supporting the social and economic response and recovery efforts (including infrastructure investments and investments in social and economic protection measures to prevent long-term damage to the productive capacity of the economy and to protect and restore productive capital), and (iii) investments in infrastructure and other productive sectors, mainly where clients might otherwise need to curtail long-term investments due to liquidity constraints.

The Bank has adopted a variety of measures to respond to the COVID-19 pandemic. In early April 2020, the Bank launched a U.S.$5 billion COVID-19 Crisis Recovery Facility (the "CRF"), which the Bank subsequently increased to U.S.$5-10 billion, and then to U.S.$13 billion due to high demand. The CRF, which is designed to adapt to emerging client needs, offers sovereign-backed and non-sovereign-backed financings for qualifying clients and projects within AIIB's members. As a temporary facility put in place to address the COVID-19 pandemic in AIIB's members, the CRF is currently open for the approval of qualifying projects until 16 April 2022.

Impact of the COVID-19 Pandemic on the Bank's Activities and Results of Operations

The Bank currently remains fully operational and continues to conduct its activities in the normal course of business. As a precautionary measure, the Bank has put in place procedures to prevent any potential disruptions to its governance and project approval schedule. The Bank has adopted prudent measures to ensure the health and safety of its employees, including imposing travel restrictions and remote working arrangements when appropriate and rescheduling public events or holding them in virtual format until a normalised situation resumes, and it continues to monitor the situation closely.

While the severity and duration of the COVID-19 pandemic is difficult to predict, it has had and likely will continue to have a material adverse effect on the Bank's results of operations.

The Bank's financial performance is highly dependent on its ability to generate income from its liquidity and loan investment portfolios. As a result of lower interest rates, due in part to governments and central banks around the world responding to the decline in global economic demand caused by the COVID-19 pandemic, the Bank has experienced downward pressure on income earned from both its liquidity and loan investment portfolios and expects to continue experiencing such downward pressure in the coming quarters.

Due to the COVID-19 pandemic, in the nine months ended 30 September 2021, the fair value of the Bank's investments in money market funds and portfolios of high credit quality securities managed by external asset managers experienced volatility, and such volatility is expected to continue in the coming quarters. Furthermore, the COVID-19 pandemic has had and is expected to continue to have an adverse effect on the credit position of the Bank's loan portfolio, which is highly dependent on credit conditions in the member jurisdictions where the Bank's largest sovereign-backed and non-sovereign-backed borrowers are located.

In addition, while the Bank has experienced and may continue to experience demand for CRF financings, which are generally disbursing more rapidly than disbursements for AIIB's other financings, certain of the Bank's existing investment projects may be delayed or curtailed as clients evaluate the impact of the COVID-19 pandemic or may be implemented at a pace that is slower than expected. In addition, the Bank may experience a temporary decline in demand for non-sovereign-backed financings, and consequently a weaker investment pipeline, should project sponsors and beneficiaries postpone infrastructure investments. A slowdown in project implementation or a protracted decline in demand for investment financings may lead to lower disbursement rates, which may negatively affect AIIB's ability to generate income on investment financings.
