EURO MEDIUM TERM NOTE PROGRAMME

Under this €90,000,000,000 euro medium term note programme (the "Programme"), BNP Paribas<sup>1</sup> ("BNPP", the "Bank" or the "Issuer") may from time to time issue Notes in bearer or registered form (respectively, "Bearer Notes" and "Registered Notes" and, together, the "Notes") denominated in any currency agreed by the Issuer and the relevant Dealer(s) (as defined below). This Base Prospectus ("Base Prospectus" or "this Document") supersedes and replaces all previous offering circulars or prospectuses prepared in connection with the Programme. Any Notes (as defined below) issued under the Programme on or after the date of this Document are issued subject to the provisions described herein. This does not affect any Notes already in issue. This Base Prospectus constitutes a base prospectus for the purposes of Article 5.4 of the Prospectus Directive. The "Prospectus Directive" means Directive 2003/71/EC, as amended or superseded, and includes any relevant implementing measure in a relevant Member State of the European Economic Area (the "EEA"). Notes may be issued whose return (whether in respect of any interest payable on such Notes and/or their redemption amount) is linked to one or more indices including custom indices ("Index Linked Notes") or one or more shares of any company(ies) (including two or more shares which are attached to each other so that they trade as a single unit ("Stapled Shares"), global depositary receipts and/or American depositary receipts) ("Share Linked Notes") or one or more inflation indices ("Inflation Linked Notes") or one or more commodities or commodity indices ("Commodity Linked Notes") or one or more interests or units in funds or one or more fund indices ("Fund Linked Notes") or the credit of a specified entity or entities ("Credit Linked Notes") or one or more fund shares or interests in exchange traded funds, exchange traded notes, exchange traded commodities or other exchange traded products (each an "exchange traded instrument") ("ETI Linked Notes") or one or more foreign exchange rates ("Foreign Exchange (FX) Rate Linked Notes") or one or more underlying interest rate ("Underlying Interest Rate Linked Notes") or any combination thereof ("Hybrid Notes") as more fully described herein. Notes may provide that settlement will be by way of cash settlement ("Cash Settled Notes") or physical delivery ("Physical Delivery Notes") as provided in the applicable Final Terms.

The Notes will be issued to one or more of the Dealers specified below (each a "Dealer" and together the "Dealers", which expression shall include any additional Dealer appointed under the Programme from time to time) on a continuing basis by way of private or syndicated placements.

The Notes may be governed by English law or French law, as specified in the applicable Final Terms, and the corresponding provisions in the terms and conditions will apply to such Notes.

Application has been made to the Autorité des marchés financiers (the "AMF") in France for approval of this Base Prospectus in its capacity as competent authority pursuant to Article 212-2 of its Règlement Général which implements the Prospectus Directive on the prospectus to be published when securities are offered to the public or admitted to trading under French law. Upon such approval, application may be made for Notes issued under the Programme during a period of 12 months from the date of this Base Prospectus to be listed and/or admitted to trading on

Which for the avoidance of doubt only refers to BNP Paribas S.A. and not the Group

Euronext Paris and/or a Regulated Market (as defined below) in another Member State of the EEA. Euronext Paris is a regulated market for the purposes of the Markets in Financial Instruments Directive 2014/65/EU (each such regulated market being a "Regulated Market"). References in this Base Prospectus to Notes being "listed" (and all related references) shall mean that such Notes have been listed and admitted to trading on Euronext Paris or, as the case may be, a Regulated Market (including the regulated market of the Luxembourg Stock Exchange (including the professional segment of the regulated market of the Luxembourg Stock Exchange)) or the Euro MTF exchange regulated market of the Luxembourg Stock Exchange (the "Euro MTF Market") (including the professional segment of the Euro MTF) or on such other or further stock exchange(s) as may be agreed between the Issuer and the relevant Dealer(s). The Issuer may also issue unlisted Notes. The relevant final terms (the forms of each contained herein) in respect of the issue of any Notes will specify whether or not such Notes will be admitted to trading, and, if so, the relevant Regulated Market or other or further stock exchange(s). Except in certain specified circumstances the specific terms of each Tranche will be set forth in a set of final terms to this Base Prospectus which is the final terms document (the "Final Terms") which will be completed at the time of the agreement to issue each Tranche of Notes and (other than in the case of Exempt Notes) which will constitute final terms for the purposes of Article 5.4 of the Prospectus Directive which will be filed with the AMF. This Base Prospectus and any supplement thereto will be available on the Issuer's websites (www.invest.bnpparibas.com and <https://rates-globalmarkets.bnpparibas.com/gm/Public/LegalDocs.aspx>) and the AMF website (www.amf-france.org).

The requirement to publish a prospectus under the Prospectus Directive only applies to Notes which are to be admitted to trading on a regulated market in the EEA and/or offered to the public in the EEA other than in circumstances where an exemption is available under Article 3.2 of the Prospectus Directive (as implemented in the relevant Member State(s)). References in this Base Prospectus to "Exempt Notes" are to Notes for which no prospectus is required to be published under the Prospectus Directive. The AMF has neither approved nor reviewed information contained in this Base Prospectus in connection with Exempt Notes. Canadian dollar denominated Notes settling and clearing through CDS Clearing and Depository Services Inc. ("CDS", and such Notes "Canadian Notes") may be issued as Exempt Notes only.

Approval will also be granted by the Luxembourg Stock Exchange in accordance with Part IV of the Luxembourg Act on prospectuses for securities dated 10 July 2005, as amended, for Notes (including Exempt Notes) issued under the Programme to be admitted to the Official List and admitted to trading on the Euro MTF Market during the twelve-month period after the date of approval of this Base Prospectus. This Base Prospectus also constitutes a prospectus for the purpose of Part IV of the Luxembourg law on prospectuses for securities dated 10 July 2005, as amended. The Euro MTF is not a regulated market for the purposes of Directive 2014/65/EU.

The specific terms of each Tranche of Exempt Notes will be set out in a final terms for exempt notes document (the "Final Terms for Exempt Notes"). In respect of Exempt Notes to be admitted to trading on the Euro MTF Market, the applicable Final Terms for Exempt Notes will be delivered to the Luxembourg Stock Exchange on or before the date of issue of the Exempt Notes of the relevant Tranche and published on the website of the Luxembourg Stock Exchange (www.bourse.lu). Copies of Final Terms for Exempt Notes will be available from the specified office of the Principal Paying Agent (subject as provided in paragraph 4 of "General Information", starting on page 938). Any reference in this Base Prospectus to "Final Terms", "relevant Final Terms" or "applicable Final Terms" will be deemed to include a reference to "Final Terms for Exempt Notes", "relevant Final Terms for Exempt Notes" or "applicable Final Terms for Exempt Notes" in relation to Exempt Notes, to the extent applicable.

BNPP's long-term credit ratings are A+ with a stable outlook (S&P Global Ratings Europe Limited ("Standard & Poor's")), Aa3 with a stable outlook (Moody's Investors Service Ltd. ("Moody's")), AA- with a stable outlook (Fitch France S.A.S. ("Fitch France")) and AA (low) with a stable outlook (DBRS Limited ("DBRS")) and BNPP's short-term credit ratings are A-1 (Standard & Poor's), P-1 (Moody's), F1+ (Fitch France) and R-1 (middle) (DBRS). BNPP's Tier 2 instruments ratings are BBB+ (Standard & Poor's), Baa2 (Moody's), A (Fitch France) and A (DBRS). BNPP's Non Preferred Senior debt ratings are A- (Standard & Poor's), Baa1 (Moody's), A+ (Fitch France) and A (high) (DBRS). Each of Standard & Poor's, Moody's, Fitch France and DBRS is established in the European Union and is registered under the Regulation (EC) No. 1060/2009 (as amended) (the "CRA Regulation"). As such each of Standard & Poor's, Moody's, Fitch France and DBRS is included in the list of credit rating agencies published by the European Securities and Markets Authority on its website (at <http://www.esma.europa.eu/page/List-registered-and-certified-CRAs>) in accordance with the CRA Regulation. Notes issued under the Programme may be rated or unrated. A security rating is not a recommendation to buy, sell or hold securities and may be subject to suspension, reduction or withdrawal at any time. Please also refer to "Credit ratings assigned to the Issuer or any Notes may not reflect all of the risks associated with an investment in those Notes" in the Risks section of this Base Prospectus.

IMPORTANT NOTICES

Overview of the BRRD and its Implication for the Notes

By its acquisition of the Notes, each holder acknowledges, accepts, consents and agrees to be bound by the effect of the exercise of the Bail-in or Loss Absorption Power by the relevant resolution authority. Please also refer to the "Risks" section of this Base Prospectus.

1. What is the BRRD?

The Bank Recovery and Resolution Directive (2014/59/EU) ("BRRD") requires the governments of all EU member states to provide their relevant resolution authorities with a set of tools to intervene sufficiently early and quickly in an unsound or failing institution so as to ensure the continuity of that institution's critical financial and economic functions, while minimising the impact of that institution's failure on the broader economy and financial system.

Directive (EU) 2019/879 of the European Parliament and of the Council of 20 May 2019 amending the BRRD as regards the loss-absorbing and recapitalisation capacity of credit institutions and investment firms and Regulation (EU) 2019/877 of the European Parliament and of the Council of 20 May 2019 amending the Single Resolution Mechanism Regulation (Regulation 806/2014) as regards the loss-absorbing and recapitalisation capacity of credit institutions and investment firms, have been published on 7 June 2019 in the Official Journal of the European Union. They amend a number of key EU banking directives and regulations, including the BRRD, the Directive 2013/36/EU of the European Parliament and of the Council of 26 June 2013 on access to the activity of credit institutions and the prudential supervision of credit institutions and investment firms ("CRD IV"), the Regulation 2013/575 of the European Parliament and of the Council of 26 June 2013 on prudential requirements for credit institutions and investment firms ("CRR"), and the Single Resolution Mechanism.

The BRRD contains four resolution tools and powers (the "Resolution Tools") which may be used alone or in combination where the relevant resolution authority considers that (a) an affected institution is failing or likely to fail, (b) there is no reasonable prospect that any alternative private sector measures would prevent the failure of such affected institution within a reasonable timeframe, and (c) a resolution action is in the public interest: (i) sale of business – which enables the relevant resolution authorities to direct the sale of the affected institution or the whole or part of its business on commercial terms; (ii) bridge institution – which enables the relevant resolution authorities to transfer all or part of the business of the affected institution to a "bridge institution" (an entity created for this purpose that is wholly or partially in public control); (iii) asset separation – which enables the relevant resolution authorities to transfer impaired or problem assets to one or more publicly owned asset management vehicles to allow them to be managed with a view to maximising their value through eventual sale or orderly wind-down (this can be used together with another resolution tool only); and (iv) Bail-In Power (as defined below in paragraph 3 below).

It is important to note that protections are granted to the creditors of an EU bank in case of the exercise of a Resolution Tool over such bank. The most important one is the principle known as the "no creditor worse off principle" as specified in the BRRD. This principle is intended to ensure that the creditors of a bank which is subject to the exercise of any Resolution Tool under the BRRD shall not incur greater losses than they would have incurred if such affected bank had been wound up under normal insolvency proceedings. For this purpose, the relevant resolution authorities have to ensure that it is assessed at the time of exercise of any Resolution Tool whether shareholders and creditors of an affected bank would have received better treatment if such affected bank had entered into normal insolvency proceedings.

2. Is the Issuer subject to the BRRD?

Yes, the Issuer is a credit institution incorporated in France and is subject to the BRRD and the French legislation having implemented the BRRD.

Under French legislation having implemented the BRRD, substantial powers are granted to the Autorité de contrôle prudentiel et de résolution ("ACPR"), the French resolution authority, and/or to other relevant resolution authorities in the EU, to implement resolution measures in respect of a French credit institution (including, for example, the Issuer) and certain of its affiliates (each a "relevant entity") to protect and enhance the stability of the financial system if the relevant French resolution authorities consider the failure of the relevant entity has become likely and certain other conditions are satisfied including the use of the Resolution Tools.

The exercise of any Resolution Tool or any suggestion of any such exercise under the BRRD over the Issuer could adversely affect the value of the Notes. You may therefore lose all or a substantial part of your investment in the Notes.

In addition, the resolution powers could be exercised (i) prior to the commencement of any insolvency proceedings in respect of the Issuer, and (ii) by the relevant French resolution authority without your consent or any prior notice to you. Accordingly, you may not be able to anticipate a potential exercise of any such resolution powers over the Issuer.

3. What is "Bail-In Power"?

"Bail-In Power" means the power of the relevant resolution authority to write down or convert to equity certain claims of unsecured creditors of a failing institution. In particular, the obligations of the Issuer in respect of the Notes can be reduced (in part or in whole), cancelled, modified, or converted into shares, other securities or other obligations of the Issuer or any other person.

In addition, capital instruments may be written down or converted into shares or other instruments of ownership either in connection with a resolution proceeding, or in certain other cases described below without or prior to a resolution proceeding. Capital instruments for these purposes include common equity tier 1, additional tier 1 and tier 2 instruments, such as the Subordinated Notes.

The relevant resolution authority must write down capital instruments, or convert them into shares or other instruments of ownership in any of the following circumstances (the so called "point of non-viability"):

- (i) where the determination has been made that conditions for resolution have been met, before any resolution action is taken;
- (ii) the appropriate authority determines that unless that power is exercised in relation to the relevant capital instruments, the institution or the group will no longer be viable; or
- (iii) extraordinary public financial support is required by the institution, except in certain circumstances.

4. Are the Issuer's obligations under the Notes subject to the "Bail-In Power"?

If any Bail-In Power is exercised with respect to the Notes, you may not be able to recover all or even part of the amount due under the Notes from the Issuer, or you may receive a different security issued by the Issuer (or another person) in place of the amount (if any) due to you under the Notes, which may be worth significantly less than the amount due to you under the Notes at expiry.

The effect of the exercise of the Bail-In Power by the relevant French resolution authority over the Issuer may include and result in any of the following, or some combination thereof:

- the reduction of all, or a portion, of the amounts payable by the Issuer under the terms of the Notes (including a reduction to zero);
- the conversion of all, or a portion, of the amounts due under the Notes into shares or other securities or other obligations of the Issuer or of another person, including by means of an amendment, modification or variation of the contractual terms, in which case you agree to accept in lieu of your contractual rights under the terms of the Notes any such shares, other securities or other obligations of the Issuer or another person;

- the cancellation of the Notes;
- the amendment or alteration of the maturity of the Notes or amendment of the amount of interest payable on the Notes, or the date on which the interest becomes payable, including by suspending payment for a temporary period; and/or
- if applicable, the variation of the terms of the Notes, if necessary to give effect to the exercise of the Bail-In Power by the relevant resolution authority.

Accordingly, if any Bail-In Power is exercised over the Issuer with respect to Notes, you may not be able to recover all or even part of the amount due under the Notes, or you may receive a different security issued by the Issuer (or another person) in place of the amount (if any) due to you under the Notes, which may be worth significantly less than the amount due to you under the Notes at expiry.

In addition, the exercise of the Resolution Tools may also result, after any transfer of all or part of the Issuer's business or separation of any of its assets, in the Noteholders (even in the absence of any such write down or conversion) being left as the creditors of the Issuer, whose remaining business or assets is insufficient to support the claims of all or any of the creditors of the Issuer (including the Noteholders).

Disclaimer statement for Notes

In relation to investors in the Kingdom of Bahrain, Notes issued in connection with this Base Prospectus and related offering documents must be in registered form and must only be marketed to existing account holders and accredited investors as defined by the CBB (as defined below) in the Kingdom of Bahrain where such investors make a minimum investment of at least U.S.$ 100,000 or any equivalent amount in other currency or such other amount as the CBB may determine.

This offer does not constitute an offer of securities in the Kingdom of Bahrain in terms of Article (81) of the Central Bank and Financial Institutions Law 2006 (decree Law No. 64 of 2006). This Base Prospectus and related offering documents have not been and will not be registered as a prospectus with the Central Bank of Bahrain ("CBB"). Accordingly, no Notes may be offered, sold or made the subject of an invitation for subscription or purchase nor will this Base Prospectus or any other related document or material be used in connection with any offer, sale or invitation to subscribe or purchase Notes, whether directly or indirectly, to persons in the Kingdom of Bahrain, other than as marketing to accredited investors for an offer outside Bahrain.

The CBB has not reviewed, approved or registered this Base Prospectus or related offering documents and it has not in any way considered the merits of the Notes to be marketed for investment, whether in or outside the Kingdom of Bahrain. Therefore, the CBB assumes no responsibility for the accuracy and completeness of the statements and information contained in this document and expressly disclaims any liability whatsoever for any loss howsoever arising from reliance upon the whole or any part of the contents of this document.

No offer of Notes will be made to the public in the Kingdom of Bahrain and this Base Prospectus must be read by the addressee only and must not be issued, passed to, or made available to the public generally.

Notification under Section 309B(1)(c) of the Securities and Futures Act (Chapter 289) of Singapore, as modified or amended from time to time (the SFA) – Unless otherwise specified in the applicable Final Terms in respect of any Notes, all Notes issued or to be issued under the Programme shall be capital markets products other than prescribed capital markets products (as defined in the Securities and Futures (Capital Markets Products) Regulations 2018 of Singapore) and Specified Investment Products (as defined in MAS Notice SFA 04-N12: Notice on the Sale of Investment Products and MAS Notice FAA-N16: Notice on Recommendations on Investment Products).

Notice to Canadian Purchasers of Notes other than Canadian Notes

Prospective Canadian purchasers of Notes are advised that the information contained within this Base Prospectus has not been prepared with regard to matters that may be of particular concern to Canadian purchasers. Accordingly, prospective Canadian purchasers of Notes should consult with their own legal, financial and tax advisers concerning the information contained within the Base Prospectus and as to the suitability of an investment in the Notes in their particular circumstances.

Securities legislation in certain provinces or territories of Canada may provide a Canadian purchaser with remedies for rescission or damages if this Base Prospectus (including any amendment thereto) contains a misrepresentation, provided that the remedies for rescission or damages are exercised by the Canadian purchaser within the time limit prescribed by the securities legislation of the Canadian purchaser's province or territory. The purchaser should refer to any applicable provisions of the securities legislation of the Canadian purchaser's province or territory for particulars of these rights or consult with a legal advisor.

Prospective Canadian purchasers are hereby notified that: (a) any of the Issuer or the Dealers may be required to provide personal information pertaining to any Canadian purchaser as required to be disclosed in Schedule 1 of Form 45-106F1 under National Instrument 45-106 Prospectus Exemptions ("NI45-106") (including the Canadian purchaser's name, address, telephone number and the aggregate purchase price of any Notes purchased) ("personal information"), which Form 45-106F1 may be required to be filed under NI 45-106, (b) such personal information may be delivered to the Ontario Securities Commission ("OSC") and/or other applicable securities regulators in accordance with NI 45-106, (c) such personal information is collected indirectly by the OSC and other applicable Canadian securities regulators under the authority granted under the securities legislation of Ontario and other applicable Canadian securities laws, (d) such personal information is collected for the purposes of the administration and enforcement of the securities legislation of the relevant Canadian jurisdiction, and (e) the contact information in each local Canadian jurisdiction for questions about the collection of such personal information as at the date of the Base Prospectus is as follows:

Each prospective Canadian purchaser that purchases any Notes will be deemed to have authorised the indirect collection of the personal information by the OSC and/or other applicable Canadian provincial securities regulators, and to have acknowledged and consented to its name, address, telephone number and other specified information, including the aggregate purchase price paid by the Canadian purchaser, being disclosed to relevant Canadian securities regulatory authorities, and to have acknowledged that such information may become available to the public in accordance with requirements of applicable Canadian laws.

Upon receipt of this Base Prospectus, each Canadian purchaser is hereby deemed to confirm that it has expressly requested that all documents evidencing or relating in any way to the sale of Notes described herein (including, for the avoidance of doubt, any purchase confirmation or any notice) be drawn up in the English language only. Par la réception de ce document, chaque acheteur canadien est réputé d'avoir confirmé par les présentes qu'il a expressément exigé que tous les documents faisant foi ou se rapportant de quelque manière que ce soit à la vente des titres décrits aux présentes (incluant, pour éviter toute incertitude, toute confirmation d'achat ou tout avis) soient rédigés en anglais seulement.

IMPORTANT – EEA RETAIL INVESTORS – If the Final Terms in respect of any Notes specifies "Prohibition of Sales to EEA Retail Investors" as:

- (i) "Applicable", the Notes are not intended to be offered, sold or otherwise made available to and should not be offered, sold or otherwise made available to any retail investor in the EEA. Consequently, no key information document required by Regulation (EU) No 1286/2014 (the "PRIIPs Regulation") for offering or selling the Notes or otherwise making them available to retail investors in the EEA has been prepared, and therefore, offering or selling the Notes or otherwise making them available to any retail investor in the EEA may be unlawful under the PRIIPs Regulation; or
- (ii) "Applicable, other than in the jurisdiction(s) for which a key information document will be made available", the Notes are not intended to be offered, sold or otherwise made available to and should not be offered, sold or otherwise made available to any retail investor in the EEA, other than in those jurisdiction(s) where a key information document required pursuant to the PRIIPs Regulation will be made available. Consequently, no key information document required by the PRIIPs Regulation for offering or selling the Notes or otherwise making them available to retail investors in the EEA has been prepared, other than in respect of the jurisdiction(s) for which a key information document will be made available, and therefore offering or selling the Notes or otherwise making them available to any retail investor in the EEA may be unlawful under the PRIIPs Regulation; or
- (iii) "Not applicable", then the Notes may be offered, sold or otherwise made available to any retail investor in the EEA, provided that, where a key information document is required pursuant to the PRIIPs Regulation, the Notes may only be offered, sold or otherwise made available to retail investors in the EEA in jurisdiction(s) for which a key information document has been made available. Consequently, if no key information document required by the PRIIPs Regulation for offering or selling the Notes or otherwise making them available to retail investors in the EEA has been prepared, offering or selling the Notes or otherwise making them available to any retail investor in the EEA may be unlawful under the PRIIPs Regulation, other than in respect of the jurisdiction(s) for which a key information document will be made available.

For these purposes, a retail investor means a person who is one (or more) of: (i) a retail client as defined in point (11) of Article 4(1) of Directive 2014/65/EU (as amended "MiFID II"); (ii) a customer within the meaning of Directive 2002/92/EC (as amended or superseded, the "Insurance Mediation Directive"), where that customer would not qualify as a professional client as defined in point (10) of Article 4(1) of MiFID II; or (iii) not a qualified investor as defined in the Prospectus Directive.

Amounts payable under the Notes may be calculated by reference to one or more "benchmarks" for the purposes of Regulation (EU) No. 2016/1011 of the European Parliament and of the Council of 8 June 2016 (the "Benchmarks Regulation"). In this case and in respect of a Non-Exempt Offer of Notes only, a statement will be included in the applicable Final Terms as to whether or not the relevant administrator of the "benchmark" is included in ESMA's register of administrators under Article 36 of the Benchmarks Regulation. Certain "benchmarks" may either (i) not fall within the scope of the Benchmarks Regulation by virtue of Article 2 of that regulation or (ii) transitional provisions in Article 51 of the Benchmarks Regulation may apply to certain other "benchmarks" which would otherwise be in scope such that at the date of the relevant Final Terms the administrator of the "benchmark" is not required to be included in the register of administrators.

MiFID II product governance / target market – The Final Terms in respect of any Notes will include a legend entitled "MiFID II product governance/target market assessment" which will outline the target market assessment in respect of the Notes, taking into account the five categories in item 18 of the Guidelines published by ESMA on 5 February 2018, and which channels for distribution of the Notes are appropriate. Any person subsequently offering, selling or recommending the Notes (a "distributor" as defined in MiFID II) should take into consideration the target market assessment; however, a distributor subject to MiFID II is responsible for undertaking its own target market assessment in respect of the Notes (by either adopting or refining the target market assessment) and determining appropriate distribution channels.

A determination will be made in relation to each issue about whether, for the purpose of the Product Governance rules under EU Delegated Directive 2017/593 (the "MiFID Product Governance Rules"), any Dealer subscribing for any Notes is a manufacturer in respect of such Notes, but otherwise neither the Arranger nor the Dealers nor any of their respective affiliates will be a manufacturer for the purpose of the MiFID Product Governance Rules.

PROGRAMME SUMMARY

Programme Summary

Summaries are made up of disclosure requirements known as "Elements". These Elements are numbered in Sections A – E (A.1 – E.7) below. This Summary contains all the Elements required to be included in a summary for this type of Notes and Issuer. Because some Elements are not required to be addressed, there may be gaps in the numbering sequence of the Elements. Even though an Element may be required to be inserted in the summary because of the type of Notes and Issuer, it is possible that no relevant information can be given regarding the Element. In this case a short description of the Element should be included in the summary explaining why it is not applicable.

Section A – Introduction and warnings

| B.4b    | Trend information                                           | Macroeconomic environment Macroeconomic and market conditions affect the Bank's results. The nature of the Bank's business makes it particularly sensitive to macroeconomic and market conditions in Europe. In 2018, global growth remained healthy at around 3.7% (according to the IMF), reflecting a stabilised growth rate in advanced economies (+2.4% after +2.3% in 2017) and in emerging economies (+4.6% after +4.7% in 2017). Since the economy was at the peak of its cycle in large developed countries, central banks continued to tighten accommodating monetary policy or planned to taper it. With inflation levels still moderate, however, central banks were able to manage this transition gradually, thereby limiting the risks of a marked downturn in economic activity. Thus, the IMF expects the global growth rate experienced over the last two years to continue in 2019 (+3.5%) despite the slight slowdown expected in advanced economies. In this context, the following two risk categories can be identified: Risks of financial instability due to the conduct of monetary policies Two risks should be emphasised: a sharp increase in interest rates and the current very accommodating monetary policy being maintained for too long. On the one hand, the continued tightening of monetary policy in the United States (which started in 2015) and the less-accommodating monetary policy in the euro zone (reduction in asset purchases started in January 2018, with an end in December 2018) involve risks of financial turbulence and economic slowdown more pronounced than expected. The risk of an inadequately controlled rise in long-term interest rates may in particular be emphasised, under the scenario of an unexpected increase in inflation or an unanticipated tightening of monetary policies. If this risk materialises, it could have negative consequences on the asset markets, particularly those for which risk premiums are extremely low compared to their historic average, following a decade of accommodating monetary policies (credit to non-investment grade corporates or countries, certain sectors of the equity and bond markets, etc.) as well as on certain interest rate sensitive sectors. On the other hand, despite the upturn since mid-2016, interest rates remain low, which may encourage excessive risk-taking among some financial market participants: lengthening maturities of financings and assets held, less stringent credit policy, and an increase in leveraged financings. Some of these participants (insurance companies, pension |

|  |  | funds, asset managers, etc.) have an increasingly systemic dimension and in the event of market turbulence (linked for example to a sharp rise in interest rates and/or a sharp price correction) they could be brought to unwind large positions in a relatively weak market liquidity. Systemic risks related to increased debt Macro-economically, the impact of an interest rate increase could be significant for countries with high public and/or private debt-to-GDP. This is particularly the case for certain European countries (in particular Greece, Italy, and Portugal), which are posting public debt-to-GDP ratios often above 100% but also for emerging countries. Between 2008 and 2018, the latter recorded a marked increase in their debt, including foreign currency debt owed to foreign creditors. The private sector was the main source of the increase in this debt, but also the public sector to a lesser extent, particularly in Africa. These countries are particularly vulnerable to the prospect of a tightening in monetary policies in the advanced economies. Capital outflows could weigh on exchange rates, increase the costs of servicing that debt, import inflation, and cause the emerging countries' central banks to tighten their credit conditions. This would bring about a reduction in forecast economic growth, possible downgrades of sovereign ratings, and an increase in risks for the banks. While the exposure of the Group to emerging countries is limited, the vulnerability of these economies may generate disruptions in the global financial system that could affect the Group and potentially alter its results. It should be noted that debt- related risk could materialise, not only in the event of a sharp rise in interest rates, but also with any negative growth shocks. Laws and regulations applicable to financial institutions Recent and future changes in the laws and regulations applicable to financial institutions may have a significant impact on the Bank. This regulation aims to move the European data confidentiality environment forward and improve personal data protection within the European Union. Businesses run the risk of severe penalties if they do not comply with the standards set by the GDPR. This Regulation applies to all banks providing services to European citizens; and</li> <li>– the finalisation of Basel 3 published by the Basel committee in December 2017, introducing a revision to the measurement of credit risk, operational risk and credit valuation adjustment ("CVA") risk for the calculation of risk-weighted assets. These measures are expected to come into effect in January 2022 and will be subject to an output floor (based on standardised approaches), which will be gradually applied as of 2022 and reach its final level in 2027.</li> </ul> Moreover, in this tougher regulatory context, the risk of non-compliance with existing laws and regulations, in particular those relating to the protection of the interests of customers and personal data, is a significant risk for the banking industry, potentially resulting in significant losses and fines. In addition to its compliance system, which specifically covers this type of risk, the Group places the interest of its customers, and more broadly that of its stakeholders, at the heart of its values. Thus, the code of conduct adopted by the Group in 2016 sets out detailed values and rules of conduct in this area. Cyber security and technology risk The Bank's ability to do business is intrinsically tied to the fluidity of electronic transactions as well as the protection and security of information and technology assets. The technological change is accelerating with the digital |

The number of attacks is increasing, with a greater reach and sophistication in all sectors, including financial services. The outsourcing of a growing number of processes also exposes the Group to structural cyber security and technology risks leading to the appearance of potential attack vectors that cybercriminals can exploit. Accordingly, the Group has a second line of defence within the risk function dedicated to managing technological and cyber security risks. Thus, operational standards are regularly adapted to support the Bank's digital evolution and innovation while managing existing and emerging threats (such as cyber-crime, espionage, etc.). |  |                                        |                                       |          |        |        |              |         |         |                         |       |       |  |                   |                   |                                                          |       |       |  |                                        |                                       |                                  |           |           |                                                       |         |         |                                     |         |         |                                    |         |         |

|  |  | Conversion Date or on the Automatic Conversion Date, as the case may be, Senior Non Preferred Notes, then the terms of the Notes will not (starting from the Optional Conversion Date in the case of Senior Preferred to Senior Non Preferred Notes (optional conversion) or from the Automatic Conversion Date in the case of Senior Preferred to Senior Non Preferred Notes (automatic conversion)) contain any events of default. However, in any case the Noteholder may, upon written notice to the Principal Paying Agent, cause such Note to become due and payable, together with accrued interest thereon, if any, as of the date on which such notice is received by the Principal Paying Agent, in the event that an order is made or an effective resolution is passed for the liquidation (liquidation judiciaire or liquidation amiable) of the Issuer. Meetings and Collective Decisions In the case of English Law Notes, the terms of the Notes will contain provisions for calling meetings of holders of such Notes to consider matters affecting their interests generally. These provisions permit defined majorities to bind all holders, including holders who did not attend and vote at the relevant meeting and holders who voted in a manner contrary to the majority. In the case of French Law Notes, the Noteholders will, in respect of all Tranches in any Series for which "Contractual Masse" or "Full Masse" are specified in the applicable Final Terms, be grouped automatically for the defence of their common interests in a masse (the "Masse"). The Masse, if applicable, will act in part through a representative (the "Representative") and in part through a general meeting of the Noteholders (the "General Meeting") or decisions taken by written resolution ("Written Resolution"). In certain cases, defined majorities may bind all Noteholders, including Noteholders who did not attend and vote at the relevant General Meeting, Noteholders who voted in a manner contrary to the majority and Noteholders who did not respond to or rejected the relevant Written Resolution. Substitution and variation In the case of English Law Notes, if a MREL/TLAC Disqualification Event has occurred and is continuing, the Issuer may, at its option, substitute all (but not some only) of the relevant Series of Senior Non Preferred Notes or vary the terms of all (but not some only) of the relevant Series of Senior Non Preferred Notes without any requirement for the consent or approval of the Noteholders, so that they become or remain Qualifying Notes. Alternatively, the Issuer may, at its option, early redeem all (but not some only) of the relevant Series of Senior Non Preferred Notes, as set out below. "MREL/TLAC Disqualification Event" means the determination by the Issuer, that as a result of a change in French and/or EU laws or regulations becoming effective on or after the Issue Date of the first Tranche of a Series of Senior Non Preferred Notes, which change was not reasonably foreseeable by the Issuer as at the Issue Date of the first Tranche of the Series, it is likely that all or part of the aggregate outstanding nominal amount of such Series of Notes will be excluded from the eligible liabilities available to meet the MREL/TLAC Requirements (however called or defined by then applicable regulations) if the Issuer is then subject to such requirements, provided that a MREL/TLAC Disqualification Event shall not occur where such Series of Notes is excluded on the basis |

|  |  | (g) Duration Adjusted Coupon. These rates and/or amounts of interest payable may be subject to a maximum or a minimum (the minimum rate of interest being zero or greater than zero). If the applicable Final Terms does not specify a minimum rate of interest for any interest period, the minimum rate of interest shall be deemed to be zero. If Coupon Switch Election or Automatic Coupon Switch is specified as applicable in the applicable Final Terms, the rate may be switched from one specified rate to another. If Additional Coupon Switch is specified as applicable in the applicable Final Terms, an Additional Switch Coupon Amount will be payable on the Interest Payment Date following such switch. The terms applicable to each Series of such Notes will be determined by the Issuer and any relevant Dealer at the time of issue of the relevant Notes, specified in the applicable Final Terms and summarised in the relevant issue specific summary annexed to the applicable Final Terms. Redemption The terms under which Notes may be redeemed (including the maturity date, redemption date or related settlement date and the amount payable or deliverable on redemption as well as any provisions relating to early redemption) will be determined by the Issuer at the time of issue of the relevant Notes, specified in the applicable Final Terms and summarised in the relevant issue specific summary annexed to the applicable Final Terms. Notes may be redeemed early for tax reasons at the Early Redemption Amount calculated in accordance with the Conditions or, if specified in the applicable Final Terms, at the option of the Issuer or at the option of the Noteholders at the Optional Redemption Amount specified in the applicable Final Terms. The Optional Redemption Amount in respect of each nominal amount of Notes equal to the Calculation Amount shall be either (i) the Calculation Amount multiplied by the percentage specified in the applicable Final Terms; or (ii) the SPS Call Payout (in the case of early redemption at the option of the Issuer) or SPS Put Payout (in the case of early redemption at the option of the Noteholders). Senior Non Preferred Notes may also be redeemed early at the option of the Issuer following the occurrence of a MREL/TLAC Disqualification Event or a MREL/TLAC Criteria Event. Subordinated Notes may also be redeemed (subject to certain conditions) at the option of the Issuer in the case where the relevant Subordinated Notes are excluded from the Tier 2 capital of BNPP. Any redemption of Subordinated Notes, Senior Non Preferred Notes and, if, "Prior approval of the Relevant Regulator" is specified as applicable, Senior Preferred Notes prior to the Maturity Date is subject to various conditions including in particular the prior approval of the Relevant Regulator. Notes may be cancelled or redeemed early if the performance of the Issuer's obligations under the Notes has become illegal or by reason of force majeure or act of state it becomes impossible or impracticable for the Issuer to perform its obligations under the Notes and/or any related hedging arrangements. |

If Payout Switch Election or Automatic Payout Switch is specified in the applicable Final Terms, the amount payable or deliverable on redemption may be switched from one amount payable or deliverable to another. Indication of Yield In the case of Notes that bear or pay interest at a fixed rate, the yield will be specified in the applicable Final Terms and will be calculated as the rate of interest that, when used to discount each scheduled payment of interest and principal under the Notes from the Scheduled Maturity Date back to the Issue Date, yields amounts that sum to the Issue Price. An indication of the yield may only be calculated for Fixed Rate and may not be determined for Notes that bear or pay interest determined by reference to a floating rate and/or a rate calculated by reference to one or more Underlying Reference(s). The yield is calculated at the Issue Date on the basis of the Issue Price and on the assumption that the Notes are not subject to early redemption or, if applicable, no Credit Event occurs. It is not an indication of future yield. In the case of Notes that bear or pay interest other than at a fixed rate, due to the nature of such Notes it is not possible to determine the yield as of the Issue Date. Representative of Noteholders In the case of English Law Notes, no representative of the Noteholders has been appointed by the Issuer. In the case of French Law Notes with either a Full Masse or Contractual Masse, the following shall apply: (a) If the relevant Final Terms specifies "Full Masse", the Noteholders will, in respect of all Tranches in any Series, be grouped automatically for the defence of their common interests in a Masse and the provisions of the French Code de commerce relating to the Masse shall apply; or (b) If the relevant Final Terms specifies "Contractual Masse", the Noteholders will, in respect of all Tranches in any Series, be grouped automatically for the defence of their common interests in a Masse. The Masse will be governed by the provisions of the French Code de commerce with the exception of Articles L.228-48, L.228-65 subparagraphs 1°, 3°, 4° and 6° of I and II, L.228-71, R.228-63 and R.228-69 of the French Code de commerce, as completed by the provisions of the Terms and Conditions of the French Law Notes. The names and addresses of the initial Representative of the Masse and its alternate will be set out in the relevant Final Terms. The Representative appointed in respect of the first Tranche of any Series of Notes will be the representative of the single Masse of all Tranches in such Series. Please also refer to Element C.8 above for rights attaching to the Notes. |

| D.2 | Key risks regarding the Issuer | Potential investors should have sufficient knowledge and experience in capital markets transactions and should be able to correctly assess the risks associated with Notes. Certain risk factors may affect the Issuer's ability to fulfil its obligations under the Notes, some of which are beyond its control. An investment in Notes presents certain risks that should be taken into account before any investment decision is made. In particular, the Issuer, together with the BNPP Group is exposed to the risks associated with its activities, as described below: Seven main categories of risk are inherent in BNPP's activities: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>(1) Credit risk – Credit risk is defined as the probability of a borrower or counterparty defaulting on its obligations to the Issuer. Probability of default along with the recovery rate of the loan or debt in the event of default are essential elements in assessing credit quality. The Issuer's risk-weighted assets subject to this type of risk amounted to EUR 504 billion at 31 December 2018. In accordance with the EBA recommendations, this category of risk also includes risks on equity investments, as well as those related to insurance activities.</li> <li>(2) Operational risk – Operational risk is the risk of loss resulting from failed or inadequate internal processes (particularly those involving personnel and information systems) or external events, whether deliberate, accidental or natural (floods, fires, earthquakes, terrorist attacks, etc.). Operational risks include fraud, human resources risks, legal and reputational risks, non-compliance risks, tax risks, information systems risks, risk of providing inadequate financial services (conduct risk), risk of failure of operational processes including credit processes, or from the use of a model (model risk), as well as potential financial consequences related to reputation risk management. |  |  | assets subject to this type of risk amounted to EUR 73 billion at 31 December 2018. (3) Counterparty risk – Counterparty risk arises from the Issuer's credit risk in the specific context of market transactions, investments, and/or settlements. The amount of this risk varies over time depending on fluctuations in market parameters affecting the potential future value of the transactions concerned. The Issuer's risk-weighted assets subject to this type of risk amounted to EUR 27 billion at 31 December 2018. (4) Market risk – Market risk is the risk of loss of value caused by an unfavorable trend in prices or market parameters. Market parameters include, but are not limited to, exchange rates, prices of securities and commodities (whether the price is directly quoted or obtained by reference to a comparable asset), the price of derivatives on an established market and all benchmarks that can be derived from market quotations such as interest rates, credit spreads, volatility or implicit correlations or other similar parameters. The Issuer's risk-weighted assets subject to this type of risk amounted to EUR 20 billion at 31 December 2018. (5) Securitisation risk – Securitisation is a transaction or arrangement by which the credit risk associated with a liability or set of liabilities is subdivided into tranches. Any commitment made under a securitisation structure (including derivatives and liquidity lines) is considered to be a securitisation. The bulk of these commitments are in the prudential banking portfolio. The Issuer's risk-weighted assets subject to this type of risk amounted to EUR 7 billion at 31 December 2018. (6) Risks related to deferred taxes and certain holdings in credit or financial institutions – amounts below the prudential capital deduction thresholds generate risk-weighted assets amounting to EUR 17 billion at 31 December 2018. (7) Liquidity risk – Liquidity risk is the risk that the Issuer will not be able to honor its commitments or unwind or offset a position due to market conditions or specific factors within a specified period of time and at a reasonable cost. It reflects the risk of not being able to cope with net cash outflows, including collateral requirements, over short-term to long-term horizons. The Group's specific risk can be assessed through its short-term liquidity ratio, which analyses the hedging of net cash outflows during a 30-day stress period. More generally, the risks to which the Group is exposed may arise from a number of factors related, among other things, to changes in its macroeconomic, competitive, market and regulatory environment or the implementation of its strategy, its business or its operations. Risks This section summarises the principal risks that the Issuer currently considers itself to face. They are presented in the following categories: risks related to the macroeconomic environment, risks related to the market environment, regulatory risks and risks related to |

| B.4b    | Informations sur les tendances                               | Conditions macroéconomiques L'environnement macroéconomique et de marché affecte les résultats de la Banque. Compte tenu de la nature de son activité, la Banque est particulièrement sensible aux conditions macroéconomiques et de marché en Europe, qui ont connu des perturbations au cours des dernières années. En 2018, la croissance mondiale s'est maintenue à un niveau confortable, de l'ordre de 3,7% (selon le FMI), reflétant une stabilisation du rythme de progression au sein des économies avancées (+2,4% après +2,3% en 2017) comme des économies émergentes (+4,6% après +4,7% en 2017). L'économie se situant en haut de cycle dans les grands pays développés, les banques centrales ont poursuivi le durcissement de leur politique monétaire ou prévoient la diminution de l'assouplissement de celle-ci. Le niveau toujours modéré de l'inflation permet cependant aux banques centrales d'opérer cette transition de façon progressive et ainsi de limiter les risques de retournement marqué de l'activité. Ainsi le FMI s'attend en 2019 à un maintien du rythme de croissance mondiale observé au cours des deux dernières années (+3,5%) en dépit d'un léger ralentissement attendu dans les économies avancées. Dans ce contexte, on peut souligner les deux catégories de risques suivantes : Risques d'instabilité financière liés à la conduite des politiques monétaires Deux risques sont à souligner, celui d'une hausse brutale des taux d'intérêt et celui du maintien trop prolongé des politiques actuelles très accommodantes. D'une part, la poursuite du durcissement de la politique monétaire aux États-Unis (entamée depuis 2015) et la réduction du caractère accommodant de la politique monétaire en zone euro (réduction des achats nets de titres depuis janvier 2018 avec un arrêt en décembre 2018) impliquent des risques de turbulences financières et de ralentissement économique plus marqué que prévu. Le risque d'une hausse mal contrôlée des taux d'intérêt à long terme peut en particulier être souligné, dans l'hypothèse d'une surprise à la hausse en matière d'inflation ou d'un durcissement mal anticipé des politiques monétaires. La matérialisation de ce risque pourrait avoir des conséquences négatives sur les marchés d'actifs, en particulier ceux pour lesquels les primes de risque sont extrêmement faibles par rapport à leur moyenne historique suite à une décennie de politiques |

Certains de ces acteurs (assureurs, fonds de pension, gestionnaires d'actifs, etc.) ont une dimension de plus en plus systémique et, en cas de turbulences de marché (par exemple liées à une hausse brutale des taux et/ou un réajustement marqué des prix), pourraient être amenés à dénouer de larges positions dans un contexte où la liquidité de marché se révélerait relativement fragile. Risques systémiques liés à la hausse de l'endettement Sur le plan macroéconomique, l'impact d'une hausse des taux d'intérêt pourrait être sensible pour les pays affichant des niveaux de dette publique et/ou privée élevés par rapport au PIB. C'est notamment le cas de certains pays européens (notamment la Grèce, l'Italie, ou le Portugal), qui affichent des ratios de dette publique au PIB parfois supérieurs à 100 %, mais aussi de pays émergents. Ceux-ci ont enregistré entre 2008 et 2018 une hausse marquée de leur dette, y compris de la dette en devises et due à des créiteurs étrangers. La hausse de cet endettement est surtout le fait du secteur privé, mais également du secteur public dans une moindre mesure, notamment en Afrique. Ces pays sont ainsi particulièrement exposés à la perspective d'un resserrement des politiques monétaires dans les pays avancés. Des sorties de capitaux pourraient peser sur les taux de change, augmenter le service de cette dette, importer de l'inflation, et conduire les banques centrales des pays émergents à resserrer leurs conditions de crédit. S'ensuivrait une dégradation des perspectives de croissance de leur activité économique, de possibles dégradations de notations souveraines, et une augmentation des risques pour les banques. Bien que l'exposition du Groupe dans les pays émergents soit limitée, la vulnérabilité de ces économies peut conduire à des perturbations du système financier mondial qui toucheraient le Groupe et pourraient affecter ses résultats. Il est à noter que le risque lié à l'endettement pourrait se matérialiser non seulement en cas de hausse brutale des taux d'intérêt, mais aussi en cas d'autres chocs négatifs sur la croissance. Législations et réglementations applicables aux institutions financières. Les évolutions récentes et à venir des législations et réglementations applicables aux institutions financières peuvent avoir un impact significatif sur la Banque. Les mesures adoptées récemment ou qui sont (ou dont les mesures d'application sont) encore en projet, qui ont, ou sont susceptibles d'avoir un impact sur la Banque, comprennent notamment : <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>– les réglementations sur les fonds propres : la directive européenne sur les exigences prudentielles (« CRD IV ») et le règlement européen sur les exigences prudentielles (« CRR »), le standard international de capacité d'absorption totale des pertes (« total-loss absorbing capacity » ou « TLAC »), et</li> </ul> |

Ce Règlement s'applique à l'ensemble des banques fournissant des services aux citoyens européens ; et <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>– la finalisation de Bâle 3 publiée par le comité de Bâle en décembre 2017 qui introduit une révision de la mesure du risque de crédit, du risque opérationnel et du risque sur le Credit Valuation Adjustment (CVA) pour le calcul des actifs pondérés. Ces mesures devraient entrer en vigueur en janvier 2022 et seront soumises à un plancher global qui s'appuiera sur les approches standard, qui sera progressivement appliqué à partir de 2022 pour atteindre son niveau final en 2027.</li> </ul> Par ailleurs, dans ce contexte réglementaire renforcé, le risque lié au non-respect des législations et réglementations en vigueur, en particulier celles relatives à la protection des intérêts des clients et des données personnelles, est un risque important pour l'industrie bancaire, qui s'est traduit par des pertes et amendes importantes. Au-delà de son dispositif de conformité qui couvre spécifiquement ce type de risque, le Groupe place l'intérêt des clients, et d'une manière plus générale des parties prenantes, au centre de ses valeurs. Ainsi, le Code de conduite adopté par le Groupe en 2016 établit des valeurs et des règles de conduite détaillées dans ce domaine. Cybersécurité et risque technologique La capacité de la Banque à exercer ses activités est intrinsèquement liée à la fluidité des opérations électroniques, ainsi qu'à la protection et à la sécurité de l'information et des actifs technologiques. Le rythme des changements technologiques s'accélère avec la transformation numérique avec comme conséquences l'accroissement du nombre des circuits de communication, la multiplication des sources de données, l'automatisation croissante des processus et le recours accru aux transactions bancaires électroniques. Les progrès et l'accélération des changements technologiques donnent aux cybercriminels de nouvelles possibilités pour altérer, voler et divulguer des données. Les attaques sont plus nombreuses, avec une portée et une sophistication plus importante dans l'ensemble des secteurs, y compris celui des services financiers. L'externalisation d'un nombre croissant de processus expose également le Groupe BNPP à des risques structurels de cybersécurité et de technologie conduisant à l'apparition de vecteurs d'attaque potentiels que les cybercriminels peuvent exploiter. En conséquence, le Groupe BNPP dispose au sein de la fonction RISK d'une seconde ligne de défense dédiée à la gestion des risques technologiques et de cybersécurité. Les normes opérationnelles sont ainsi régulièrement adaptées pour soutenir l'évolution digitale et l'innovation du Groupe BNPP tout en gérant les menaces existantes et émergentes (telles que le cyber-crime, l'espionnage, etc.). |

Si les Conditions Définitives applicables spécifient que la clause de Changement de Formule de Paiement ou Changement Automatique de Formule de Paiement s'applique, le montant payable ou livrable en cas de remboursement pourra être changé pour passer d'un montant payable ou livrable à un autre. Indication du Rendement Dans le cas d'Obligations portant ou payant des intérêts à un taux fixe, le rendement sera spécifié dans les Conditions Définitives applicables. Ce rendement sera calculé en appliquant le taux d'intérêt qui, s'il était appliqué rétroactivement à la Date d'Emission à chaque paiement en principal et intérêts devant être effectué en vertu des Obligations, rapporterait, à la Date d'Echéance Prévue, des montants égaux au total au Prix d'Emission. Une indication du rendement peut seulement être calculée pour les Obligations à Taux Fixe et ne peut pas être déterminée pour les Obligations qui portent ou payent des intérêts, déterminés par référence à un taux variable et/ou un taux calculé par référence à un ou plusieurs Sous-Jacent(s) de Référence. Le rendement est calculé à la Date d'Emission sur la base du Prix d'Emission et en supposant que les Obligations ne font pas l'objet d'un remboursement anticipé, ou, s'il y a lieu, qu'aucun Evénement de Crédit ne survient. Il n'est pas une indication du rendement futur. |

| D.2 | Principaux risques propres à l'Emetteur | Les investisseurs potentiels devraient avoir une expérience et une connaissance suffisantes concernant les transactions réalisées sur les marchés de capitaux et devraient être en mesure d'évaluer correctement les risques liés aux Obligations. Certains facteurs de risque peuvent affecter la capacité de l'Emetteur à remplir ses obligations en vertu des Obligations, dont certains sont au-delà de sa maîtrise. Un investissement dans les Obligations présente certains risques qui devraient être pris en compte avant qu'une décision d'investissement ne soit prise. Plus particulièrement, l'Emetteur, ensemble avec le Groupe BNPP, est exposé aux risques inhérents à ses activités, tels que décrits ci-dessous : Sept principaux risques sont inhérents aux activités de BNPP : (1) Risque de crédit – Le risque de crédit est défini comme la probabilité d'une inexécution par un emprunteur ou une contrepartie de ses obligations vis-à-vis de l'Emetteur. |

|  | (2) | Risque Opérationnel – Le risque opérationnel est le risque de perte résultant de processus internes défectueux ou inadéquats (notamment ceux impliquant le personnel et les systèmes informatiques) ou d'événements externes, qu'ils soient délibérés, accidentels ou naturels (inondations, incendies, tremblements de terre, attaques terroristes...). Le risque opérationnel recouvre la fraude, les risques en lien avec les ressources humaines, les risques juridiques et de réputation, les risques de non-conformité, les risques fiscaux, les risques liés aux systèmes d'information, la fourniture de services financiers inappropriés (conduct risk), les risques de défaillance des processus opérationnels y compris les processus de crédit, ou l'utilisation d'un modèle (risque de modèle), ainsi que les conséquences pécuniaires éventuelles liées à la gestion du risque de réputation. Les actifs pondérés spécifiques à ce risque s'élèvent à 73 milliards d'euros au 31 décembre 2018. |
|  | (3) | Risque de contrepartie – Le risque de contrepartie est la manifestation du risque de crédit à l'occasion d'opérations de marché, d'investissements, et/ou de règlements. Le montant de ce risque varie au cours du temps avec l'évolution des paramètres de marché affectant la valeur potentielle future des transactions concernées. Les actifs pondérés spécifiques à ce risque s'élèvent à 27 milliards d'euros au 31 décembre 2018.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |
|  | (4) | Risque de marché – Le risque de marché est le risque de perte de valeur provoqué par une évolution défavorable des prix ou des paramètres de marché. Les paramètres de marché sont, sans que cette liste soit exhaustive, les taux de change, les cours des valeurs mobilières et des matières premières négociables (que le prix soit directement coté ou obtenu par référence à un actif comparable), le prix de dérivés sur un marché organisé ainsi que tous les paramètres qui peuvent être induits de cotations de marché comme les taux d'intérêt, les spreads de crédit, les volatilités ou les corrélations implicites ou d'autres paramètres similaires. Les actifs pondérés spécifiques à ce risque s'élèvent à 20 milliards d'euros au 31 décembre 2018.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
|  | (5) | Risque de titrisation du portefeuille bancaire – La titrisation est une opération ou un montage par lequel le risque de crédit associé à une exposition ou à un ensemble d'expositions est subdivisé en tranches. Tout engagement pris dans le cadre d'une structure de titrisation (y compris les dérivés et les lignes de liquidité) est considéré comme une exposition de titrisation. L'essentiel de ces engagements est en portefeuille bancaire prudentiel. |  |  | (6) Risques liés aux impôts différés et à certaines participations dans des établissements de crédit ou financiers – Les montants inférieurs aux seuils de déduction des fonds propres prudentiels génèrent des actifs pondérés qui s'élèvent à 17 milliards d'euros au 31 décembre 2018. (7) Risque de liquidité – Le risque de liquidité est le risque que l'Emetteur ne puisse pas honorer ses engagements ou dénouer ou compenser une position en raison de la situation du marché ou de facteurs qui lui sont spécifiques, dans un délai déterminé et à un coût raisonnable. Il traduit le risque de ne pas pouvoir faire face à des flux nets sortants de trésorerie y compris liés à des besoins en collatéral, sur l'ensemble des horizons du court terme au long terme. Le risque spécifique du Groupe peut être notamment appréhendé au travers du ratio de liquidité à court terme analysant la couverture des sorties nettes de trésorerie à 30 jours en scénario de stress. De manière transversale, les risques auxquels le Groupe est exposé, peuvent provenir d'un certain nombre de facteurs liés entre autre à l'évolution de son environnement macro-économique, concurrentiel, de marché et réglementaire ou de facteurs liés à la mise en œuvre de sa stratégie, à son activité ou à ses opérations. Risques Cette section résume les principaux facteurs de risque auxquels l'Emetteur estime actuellement être exposé. Ils sont classés par catégorie : risques liés à l'environnement macroéconomique, risques liés à l'environnement de marché, risques liés à la réglementation et risques liés à la mise en œuvre de la stratégie de l'Emetteur, risques liés à la gestion de l'activité de l'Emetteur et risques liés aux opérations de l'Emetteur. (a) Des conditions économiques et financières défavorables ont eu dans le passé et pourraient avoir à l'avenir un impact sur l'Emetteur et les marchés dans lesquels il intervient. (b) Du fait du périmètre global de ses activités, l'Emetteur pourrait être vulnérable aux risques politiques, macroéconomiques ou financiers dans les pays ou régions où il opère. (c) L'accès de l'Emetteur au financement et les coûts de ce financement pourraient être affectés de manière défavorable en cas de résurgence des crises financières, de détérioration des conditions économiques, de dégradation de notation, d'accroissement des spreads de crédit des États ou d'autres facteurs. (d) Un environnement prolongé de taux d'intérêt bas comporte des risques systémiques inhérents et la sortie d'un tel environnement comporte également des risques. (e) Toute variation significative des taux d'intérêt est susceptible de peser sur les revenus ou sur la rentabilité de l'Emetteur. (f) La solidité financière et le comportement des autres institutions financières et acteurs du marché pourraient avoir un effet défavorable sur l'Emetteur. (g) Les fluctuations de marché et la volatilité exposent l'Emetteur |

PRO FORMA ISSUE SPECIFIC SUMMARY OF THE PROGRAMME<sup>1</sup>

Summaries are made up of disclosure requirements known as "Elements". These Elements are numbered in Sections A – E (A.1 – E.7) below. This Summary contains all the Elements required to be included in a summary for this type of Notes and Issuer. Because some Elements are not required to be addressed, there may be gaps in the numbering sequence of the Elements. Even though an Element may be required to be inserted in the summary because of the type of Notes, Issuer, it is possible that no relevant information can be given regarding the Element. In this case a short description of the Element should be included in the summary explaining why it is not applicable.

The nature of the Bank's business makes it particularly sensitive to macroeconomic and market conditions in Europe. In 2018, global growth remained healthy at around 3.7% (according to the IMF), reflecting a stabilised growth rate in advanced economies (+2.4% after +2.3% in 2017) and in emerging economies (+4.6% after +4.7% in 2017). Since the economy was at the peak of its cycle in large developed countries, central banks continued to tighten accommodating monetary policy or planned to taper it. With inflation levels still moderate, however, central banks were able to manage this transition gradually, thereby limiting the risks of a marked downturn in economic activity. Thus, the IMF expects the global growth rate experienced over the last two years to continue in 2019 (+3.5%) despite the slight slowdown expected in advanced economies. In this context, the following two risk categories can be identified: Risks of financial instability due to the conduct of monetary policies Two risks should be emphasised: a sharp increase in interest rates and the current very accommodating monetary policy being maintained for too long. On the one hand, the continued tightening of monetary policy in the United States (which started in 2015) and the less-accommodating monetary policy in the euro zone (reduction in asset purchases started in January 2018, with an end in December 2018) involve risks of financial turbulence and economic slowdown more pronounced than expected. The risk of an inadequately controlled rise in long-term interest rates may in particular be emphasised, under the scenario of an unexpected increase in inflation or an unanticipated tightening of monetary policies. If this risk materialises, it could have negative consequences on the asset markets, particularly those for which risk premiums are extremely low compared to their historic average, following a decade of accommodating monetary policies (credit to non-investment grade corporates or countries, certain sectors of the equity and bond markets, etc.) as well as on certain interest rate sensitive sectors. On the other hand, despite the upturn since mid-2016, interest rates remain low, which may encourage excessive risk-taking among some financial market participants: lengthening maturities of financings and assets held, less stringent credit policy, and an increase in leveraged |

Some of these participants (insurance companies, pension funds, asset managers, etc.) have an increasingly systemic dimension and in the event of market turbulence (linked for example to a sharp rise in interest rates and/or a sharp price correction) they could be brought to unwind large positions in a relatively weak market liquidity. Systemic risks related to increased debt Macro-economically, the impact of an interest rate increase could be significant for countries with high public and/or private debt-to-GDP. This is particularly the case for certain European countries (in particular Greece, Italy, and Portugal), which are posting public debt-to-GDP ratios often above 100% but also for emerging countries. Between 2008 and 2018, the latter recorded a marked increase in their debt, including foreign currency debt owed to foreign creditors. The private sector was the main source of the increase in this debt, but also the public sector to a lesser extent, particularly in Africa. These countries are particularly vulnerable to the prospect of a tightening in monetary policies in the advanced economies. Capital outflows could weigh on exchange rates, increase the costs of servicing that debt, import inflation, and cause the emerging countries' central banks to tighten their credit conditions. This would bring about a reduction in forecast economic growth, possible downgrades of sovereign ratings, and an increase in risks for the banks. While the exposure of the Group to emerging countries is limited, the vulnerability of these economies may generate disruptions in the global financial system that could affect the Group and potentially alter its results. It should be noted that debt-related risk could materialise, not only in the event of a sharp rise in interest rates, but also with any negative growth shocks. Laws and regulations applicable to financial institutions. Recent and future changes in the laws and regulations applicable to financial institutions may have a significant impact on the Bank. Measures that were recently adopted or which are (or whose application measures are) still in draft format, that have or are likely to have an impact on the Bank notably include: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>– regulations governing capital: the Capital Requirements Directive IV ("CRD4")/the Capital Requirements Regulation ("CRR"), the international standard for total-loss absorbing capacity ("TLAC") and the Bank's designation as a financial institution that is of systemic importance by the Financial Stability Board;</li> <li>– the structural reforms comprising the French banking law of 26 July 2013 requiring that banks create subsidiaries for or segregate "speculative" proprietary operations from their traditional retail banking activities, the "Volcker rule" in the US which restricts proprietary transactions, sponsorship and investment in private equity funds and hedge funds by US and foreign banks;</li> <li>– the European Single Supervisory Mechanism and the ordinance of 6 November 2014;</li> <li>– the Directive of 16 April 2014 related to deposit guarantee systems and its delegation and implementing decrees, the Directive of 15 May 2014 establishing a Bank Recovery and Resolution framework, the Single Resolution Mechanism</li> </ul> |

|  |  | establishing the Single Resolution Council and the Single Resolution Fund; <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>– the Final Rule by the US Federal Reserve imposing tighter prudential rules on the US transactions of large foreign banks, notably the obligation to create a separate intermediary holding company in the US (capitalised and subject to regulation) to house their US subsidiaries;</li> <li>– the new rules for the regulation of over-the-counter derivative activities pursuant to Title VII of the Dodd-Frank Wall Street Reform and Consumer Protection Act, notably margin requirements for uncleared derivative products and the derivatives of securities traded by swap dealers, major swap participants, security-based swap dealers and major security-based swap participants, and the rules of the US Securities and Exchange Commission which require the registration of banks and major swap participants active on derivatives markets and transparency and reporting on derivative transactions;</li> <li>– the new Markets in Financial Instruments Directive ("MiFID II") and Markets in Financial Instruments Regulation ("MiFIR"), and European regulations governing the clearing of certain over-the-counter derivative products by centralised counterparties and the disclosure of securities financing transactions to centralised bodies;</li> <li>– the General Data Protection Regulation ("GDPR") came into force on 25 May 2018. This regulation aims to move the European data confidentiality environment forward and improve personal data protection within the European Union. Businesses run the risk of severe penalties if they do not comply with the standards set by the GDPR. This Regulation applies to all banks providing services to European citizens; and</li> <li>– the finalisation of Basel 3 published by the Basel committee in December 2017, introducing a revision to the measurement of credit risk, operational risk and credit valuation adjustment ("CVA") risk for the calculation of risk-weighted assets. These measures are expected to come into effect in January 2022 and will be subject to an output floor (based on standardised approaches), which will be gradually applied as of 2022 and reach its final level in 2027.</li> </ul> Moreover, in this tougher regulatory context, the risk of non-compliance with existing laws and regulations, in particular those relating to the protection of the interests of customers and personal data, is a significant risk for the banking industry, potentially resulting in significant losses and fines. In addition to its compliance system, which specifically covers this type of risk, the Group places the interest of its customers, and more broadly that of its stakeholders, at the heart of its values. Thus, the code of conduct adopted by the Group in 2016 sets out detailed values and rules of conduct in this area. |

The number of attacks is increasing, with a greater reach and sophistication in all sectors, including financial services. The outsourcing of a growing number of processes also exposes the Group to structural cyber security and technology risks leading to the appearance of potential attack vectors that cybercriminals can exploit. Accordingly, the Group has a second line of defence within the risk function dedicated to managing technological and cyber security risks. Thus, operational standards are regularly adapted to support the Bank's digital evolution and innovation while managing existing and emerging threats (such as cyber-crime, espionage, etc.). |                         |

BP<sup>2</sup>I provides IT Infrastructure Management Services for BNP Paribas SA and several BNP Paribas subsidiaries in France (including BNP Paribas Personal Finance, BP2S, and BNP Paribas Cardif), Switzerland and Italy. The contractual arrangement with IBM France was successively extended from year to year until the end of 2021, and then extended for a period of 5 years (i.e. to the end of 2026) in particular to integrate the IBM cloud services. BP<sup>2</sup>I is under the operational control of IBM France. BNP Paribas has a strong influence over this entity, which is 50/50 owned with IBM France. The BNP Paribas staff made available to BP<sup>2</sup>I make up half of that entity's permanent staff. Its buildings and processing centres are the property of the BNPP Group, and the governance in place provides BNP Paribas with the contractual right to monitor the entity and bring it back into the BNPP Group if necessary. IBM Luxembourg is responsible for infrastructure and data production services for some of the BNP Paribas Luxembourg entities. BancWest's data processing operations are outsourced to Fidelity Information Services. | D.2     | Key risks regarding the Issuer | [Potential investors should have sufficient knowledge and experience in capital markets transactions and should be able to correctly assess the risks associated with Notes. Certain risk factors may affect the Issuer's ability to fulfil its obligations under the Notes, some of which are beyond its control. An investment in Notes presents certain risks that should be taken into account before any investment decision is made. In particular, the Issuer, together with the BNPP Group is exposed to the risks associated with its activities, as described below:] Seven main categories of risk are inherent in BNPP's activities: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>(1) Credit risk – Credit risk is defined as the probability of a borrower or counterparty defaulting on its obligations to the Issuer. Probability of default along with the recovery rate of the loan or debt in the event of default are essential elements in assessing credit quality. The Issuer's risk-weighted assets subject to this type of risk amounted to EUR 504 billion at 31 December 2018. In accordance with the EBA recommendations, this category of risk also includes risks on equity investments, as well as those related to insurance activities.</li> <li>(2) Operational risk – Operational risk is the risk of loss resulting from failed or inadequate internal processes (particularly those involving personnel and information systems) or external events, whether deliberate, accidental or natural (floods, fires, earthquakes, terrorist attacks, etc.). Operational risks include fraud, human resources risks, legal and reputational risks, non-compliance risks, tax risks, information systems risks, risk of providing inadequate financial services (conduct risk), risk of failure of operational processes including credit processes, or from the use of a model (model risk), as well as potential financial consequences related to reputation risk management. The Issuer's risk-weighted assets subject to this type of risk amounted to EUR 73 billion at 31 December 2018.</li> <li>(3) Counterparty risk – Counterparty risk arises from the Issuer's credit risk in the specific context of market transactions, investments, and/or settlements. The amount of this risk varies over time depending on fluctuations in market parameters affecting the potential future value of the transactions concerned. The Issuer's risk-weighted assets subject to this type of risk amounted to EUR 27 billion at 31 December 2018.</li> <li>(4) Market risk – Market risk is the risk of loss of value caused by an unfavorable trend in prices or market parameters. Market parameters include, but are not limited to, exchange rates, prices of securities and commodities (whether the price is directly quoted or obtained by reference to a comparable asset), the price of derivatives on an established market and all benchmarks that can be derived from market quotations such as interest rates, credit spreads, volatility or implicit correlations or other similar parameters. The Issuer's risk-weighted assets subject to this type of risk amounted to EUR 20 billion at 31 December 2018.</li> </ol> |

|  |  | (5) Securitisation risk – Securitisation is a transaction or arrangement by which the credit risk associated with a liability or set of liabilities is subdivided into tranches. Any commitment made under a securitisation structure (including derivatives and liquidity lines) is considered to be a securitisation. The bulk of these commitments are in the prudential banking portfolio. The Issuer's risk-weighted assets subject to this type of risk amounted to EUR 7 billion at 31 December 2018. (6) Risks related to deferred taxes and certain holdings in credit or financial institutions – amounts below the prudential capital deduction thresholds generate risk-weighted assets amounting to EUR 17 billion at 31 December 2018. (7) Liquidity risk – Liquidity risk is the risk that the Issuer will not be able to honor its commitments or unwind or offset a position due to market conditions or specific factors within a specified period of time and at a reasonable cost. It reflects the risk of not being able to cope with net cash outflows, including collateral requirements, over short-term to long-term horizons. The Group's specific risk can be assessed through its short-term liquidity ratio, which analyses the hedging of net cash outflows during a 30-day stress period. More generally, the risks to which the Group is exposed may arise from a number of factors related, among other things, to changes in its macroeconomic, competitive, market and regulatory environment or the implementation of its strategy, its business or its operations. Risks This section summarises the principal risks that the Issuer currently considers itself to face. They are presented in the following categories: risks related to the macroeconomic environment, risks related to the market environment, regulatory risks and risks related to the implementation of the Issuer's strategy, risks related to the management of the Issuer's business, risks related to the Issuer's operations. (a) Adverse economic and financial conditions have in the past had and may in the future have an impact on the Issuer and the markets in which it operates. (b) Given the global scope of its activities, the Issuer may be vulnerable to certain political, macroeconomic or financial risks in the countries and regions where it operates. (c) The Issuer's access to and cost of funding could be adversely affected by a resurgence of financial crises, worsening economic conditions, rating downgrades, increases in credit spreads or other factors. (d) The prolonged low interest rate environment carries inherent systemic risks, and an exit from such environment also carries risks. (e) Significant interest rate changes could adversely affect the Issuer's revenues or profitability. (f) The soundness and conduct of other financial institutions and market participants could adversely affect the Issuer. (g) The Issuer may incur significant losses on its trading and |

| B.4b    | Information sur les tendances                                | Conditions macroéconomiques L'environnement macroéconomique et de marché affecte les résultats de la Banque. Compte tenu de la nature de son activité, la Banque est particulièrement sensible aux conditions macroéconomiques et de marché en Europe, qui ont connu des perturbations au cours des dernières années. En 2018, la croissance mondiale s'est maintenue à un niveau confortable, de l'ordre de 3,7% (selon le FMI), reflétant une stabilisation du rythme de progression au sein des économies avancées (+2,4% après +2,3% en 2017) comme des économies émergentes (+4,6% après +4,7% en 2017). L'économie se situant en haut de cycle dans les grands pays développés, les banques centrales ont poursuivi le durcissement de leur politique monétaire ou prévoient la diminution de l'assouplissement de celle-ci. Le niveau toujours modéré de l'inflation permet cependant aux banques centrales d'opérer cette transition de façon progressive et ainsi de limiter les risques de retournement marqué de l'activité. Ainsi le FMI s'attend en 2019 à un maintien du rythme de croissance mondiale observé au cours des deux dernières années (+3,5%) en dépit d'un léger ralentissement attendu dans les économies avancées. Dans ce contexte, on peut souligner les deux catégories de risques suivantes : Risques d'instabilité financière liés à la conduite des politiques monétaires Deux risques sont à souligner, celui d'une hausse brutale des taux d'intérêt et celui du maintien trop prolongé des politiques actuelles très accommodantes. D'une part, la poursuite du durcissement de la politique monétaire aux États-Unis (entamée depuis 2015) et la réduction du caractère accommodant de la politique monétaire en zone euro (réduction des achats nets de titres depuis janvier 2018 avec un arrêt en décembre 2018) impliquent des risques de turbulences financières et de ralentissement économique plus marqué que prévu. Le risque d'une hausse mal contrôlée des taux d'intérêt à long terme peut en particulier être souligné, dans l'hypothèse d'une surprise à la hausse en matière d'inflation ou d'un durcissement mal anticipé des politiques monétaires. La matérialisation de ce risque pourrait avoir des |

|  | conséquences négatives sur les marchés d'actifs, en particulier ceux pour lesquels les primes de risque sont extrêmement faibles par rapport à leur moyenne historique suite à une décennie de politiques monétaires accommodantes (crédit aux entreprises et pays non Investment Grade, certains secteurs des marchés actions et des marchés obligataires, etc.) ainsi que sur certains secteurs sensibles au niveau des taux d'intérêt. D'autre part, en dépit des remontées constatées depuis la mi-2016, les taux restent bas, ce qui peut favoriser une prise de risque excessive chez certains acteurs du système financier : augmentation des maturités des financements et des actifs détenus, politique d'octroi de crédit moins sévère, progression des financements à effet de levier. Certains de ces acteurs (assureurs, fonds de pension, gestionnaires d'actifs, etc.) ont une dimension de plus en plus systémique et, en cas de turbulences de marché (par exemple liées à une hausse brutale des taux et/ou un réajustement marqué des prix), pourraient être amenés à dénouer de larges positions dans un contexte où la liquidité de marché se révélerait relativement fragile. Risques systémiques liés à la hausse de l'endettement Sur le plan macroéconomique, l'impact d'une hausse des taux d'intérêt pourrait être sensible pour les pays affichant des niveaux de dette publique et/ou privée élevés par rapport au PIB. C'est notamment le cas de certains pays européens (notamment la Grèce, l'Italie, ou le Portugal), qui affichent des ratios de dette publique sur PIB parfois supérieurs à 100 %, mais aussi de pays émergents. Ceux-ci ont enregistré entre 2008 et 2018 une hausse marquée de leur dette, y compris de la dette en devises et due à des créiteurs étrangers. La hausse de cet endettement est surtout le fait du secteur privé, mais également du secteur public dans une moindre mesure, notamment en Afrique. Ces pays sont ainsi particulièrement exposés à la perspective d'un resserrement des politiques monétaires dans les pays avancés. Des sorties de capitaux pourraient peser sur les taux de change, augmenter le service de cette dette, importer de l'inflation, et conduire les banques centrales des pays émergents à resserrer leurs conditions de crédit. S'en suivrait une dégradation des perspectives de croissance de leur activité économique, de possibles dégradations de notations souveraines, et une augmentation des risques pour les banques. Bien que l'exposition du Groupe BNPP dans les pays émergents soit limitée, la vulnérabilité de ces économies peut conduire à des perturbations du système financier mondial qui toucheraient le Groupe et pourraient affecter ses résultats. Il est à noter que le risque lié à l'endettement pourrait se matérialiser non seulement en cas de hausse brutale des taux d'intérêt, mais aussi en cas d'autres chocs négatifs sur la croissance. Législations et réglementations applicables aux institutions financières Les évolutions récentes et à venir des législations et réglementations applicables aux institutions financières peuvent avoir un impact significatif sur la Banque. Les mesures adoptées récemment ou qui sont (ou dont les mesures d'application sont) encore en projet, qui ont, ou sont susceptibles d'avoir un impact sur la Banque, comprennent notamment : <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>– les réglementations sur les fonds propres : la directive européenne sur les exigences prudentielles (« CRD IV ») et le</li> </ul> |

Ce Règlement vise à faire évoluer l'environnement européen de confidentialité des données et améliorer la protection des données pour les particuliers au sein de l'Union européenne. Les entreprises risquent des amendes sévères en cas de non-conformité avec les normes fixées par la RGPD. Ce Règlement s'applique à l'ensemble des banques fournissant des services aux citoyens européens ; et – la finalisation de Bâle 3 publiée par le comité de Bâle en décembre 2017 qui introduit une révision de la mesure du risque de crédit, du risque opérationnel et du risque sur CVA pour le calcul des actifs pondérés. Ces mesures devraient entrer en vigueur en janvier 2022 et seront soumises à un plancher global qui s'appuiera sur les approches standard, qui sera progressivement appliqué à partir de 2022 pour atteindre son niveau final en 2027. Par ailleurs, dans ce contexte réglementaire renforcé, le risque lié au non-respect des législations et réglementations en vigueur, en particulier celles relatives à la protection des intérêts des clients et des données personnelles, est un risque important pour l'industrie bancaire, qui s'est traduit par des pertes et amendes importantes. Au-delà de son dispositif de conformité qui couvre spécifiquement ce type de risque, le Groupe place l'intérêt des clients, et d'une manière plus générale des parties prenantes, au centre de ses valeurs. Ainsi le Code de conduite adopté par le Groupe en 2016 établit des valeurs et des règles de conduite détaillées dans ce domaine. Cybersécurité et risque technologique La capacité de la Banque à exercer ses activités est intrinsèquement liée à la fluidité des opérations électroniques, ainsi qu'à la protection et à la sécurité de l'information et des actifs technologiques. Le rythme des changements technologiques s'accélère avec la transformation numérique avec comme conséquences l'accroissement du nombre des circuits de communication, la multiplication des sources de données, l'automatisation croissante des processus et le recours accru aux transactions bancaires électroniques. Les progrès et l'accélération des changements technologiques donnent aux cybercriminels de nouvelles possibilités pour altérer, voler et divulguer des données. Les attaques sont plus nombreuses, avec une portée et une sophistication plus importante dans l'ensemble des secteurs, y compris celui des services financiers. L'externalisation d'un nombre croissant de processus expose également le Groupe BNPP à des risques structurels de cybersécurité et de technologie conduisant à l'apparition de vecteurs d'attaque potentiels que les cybercriminels peuvent exploiter. En conséquence, le Groupe BNPP dispose au sein de la fonction RISK d'une seconde ligne de défense dédiée à la gestion des risques technologiques et de cybersécurité. Les normes opérationnelles sont ainsi régulièrement adaptées pour soutenir l'évolution digitale et l'innovation du Groupe BNPP tout en gérant les menaces existantes et émergentes (telles que le cyber-crime, l'espionnage, etc.). |

| D.2     | Principaux risques propres à l'Emetteur | [Les investisseurs potentiels devraient avoir une expérience et une connaissance suffisantes concernant les transactions réalisées sur les marchés de capitaux et devraient être en mesure d'évaluer correctement les risques liés aux Obligations. Certains facteurs de risque peuvent affecter la capacité de l'Emetteur à remplir ses obligations en vertu des Obligations, dont certains sont au-delà de sa maîtrise. Un investissement dans les Obligations présente certains risques qui devraient être pris en compte avant qu'une décision d'investissement ne soit prise. Plus particulièrement, l'Emetteur, ensemble avec le Groupe BNPP, est exposé aux risques inhérents à ses activités, tels que décrits ci-dessous :] Sept principaux risques sont inhérents aux activités de BNPP : (1) Risque de crédit – Le risque de crédit est défini comme la probabilité d'une inexécution par un emprunteur ou une contrepartie de ses obligations vis-à-vis de l'Emetteur conformément aux conditions convenues. L'évaluation de cette probabilité de défaut et du taux de recouvrement du prêt ou de la créance en cas de défaut est un élément essentiel de l'évaluation de la qualité du crédit. Les actifs pondérés spécifiques à ce risque s'élèvent à 504 milliards d'euros au 31 décembre 2018. Conformément aux recommandations de l'ABE, ce risque intègre également les risques sur les participations en actions y compris ceux liés aux activités d'assurance. (2) Risque Opérationnel – Le risque opérationnel est le risque de perte résultant de processus internes défectueux ou inadéquats (notamment ceux impliquant le personnel et les systèmes informatiques) ou d'événements externes, qu'ils soient délibérés, accidentels ou naturels (inondations, incendies, tremblements de terre, attaques terroristes...). Le risque opérationnel recouvre la fraude, les risques en lien avec les ressources humaines, les risques juridiques et de réputation, les risques de non-conformité, les risques fiscaux, les risques liés aux systèmes d'information, la fourniture de services financiers inappropriés (conduct risk), les risques de défaillance des processus opérationnels y compris les processus de crédit, ou l'utilisation d'un modèle (risque de modèle), ainsi que les conséquences pécuniaires éventuelles liées à la gestion du risque de réputation. Les actifs pondérés spécifiques à ce risque s'élèvent à 73 milliards d'euros au 31 décembre 2018. (3) Risque de contrepartie – Le risque de contrepartie est la manifestation du risque de crédit à l'occasion d'opérations de marché, d'investissements, et/ou de règlements. Le montant de ce risque varie au cours du temps avec l'évolution des paramètres de marché affectant la valeur potentielle future des transactions concernées. Les actifs pondérés spécifiques à ce risque s'élèvent à 27 milliards d'euros au 31 décembre 2018. (4) Risque de marché – risque de marché est le risque de perte de valeur provoqué par une évolution défavorable des prix ou |

Les paramètres de marché sont, sans que cette liste soit exhaustive, les taux de change, les cours des valeurs mobilières et des matières premières négociables (que le prix soit directement coté ou obtenu par référence à un actif comparable), le prix de dérivés sur un marché organisé ainsi que tous les paramètres qui peuvent être induits de cotations de marché comme les taux d'intérêt, les spreads de crédit, les volatilités ou les corrélations implicites ou d'autres paramètres similaires. Les actifs pondérés spécifiques à ce risque s'élèvent à 20 milliards d'euros au 31 décembre 2018. (5) Risque de titrisation du portefeuille bancaire – La titrisation est une opération ou un montage par lequel le risque de crédit associé à une exposition ou à un ensemble d'expositions est subdivisé en tranches. Tout engagement pris dans le cadre d'une structure de titrisation (y compris les dérivés et les lignes de liquidité) est considéré comme une exposition de titrisation. L'essentiel de ces engagements est en portefeuille bancaire prudentiel. Les actifs pondérés spécifiques à ce risque s'élèvent à 7 milliards d'euros au 31 décembre 2018. (6) Risque liés aux impôts différés et à certaines participations dans des établissements de crédit ou financiers – Les montants inférieurs aux seuils de déduction des fonds propres prudentiels génèrent des actifs pondérés qui s'élèvent à 17 milliards d'euros au 31 décembre 2018. (7) Risque de liquidité – Le risque de liquidité est le risque que l'Emetteur ne puisse pas honorer ses engagements ou dénouer ou compenser une position en raison de la situation du marché ou de facteurs qui lui sont spécifiques, dans un délai déterminé et à un coût raisonnable. Il traduit le risque de ne pas pouvoir faire face à des flux nets sortants de trésorerie y compris liés à des besoins en collatéral, sur l'ensemble des horizons du court terme au long terme. Le risque spécifique du Groupe peut être notamment appréhendé au travers du ratio de liquidité à court terme analysant la couverture des sorties nettes de trésorerie à 30 jours en scénario de stress. De manière transversale, les risques auxquels l'Emetteur est exposé, peuvent provenir d'un certain nombre de facteurs liés entre autre à l'évolution de son environnement macro-économique, concurrentiel, de marché et réglementaire ou de facteurs liés à la mise en œuvre de sa stratégie, à son activité ou à ses opérations. Risques Cette section résume les principaux facteurs de risque auxquels l'Emetteur estime actuellement être exposée. ## RISKS

In purchasing Notes, investors assume the risk that the Issuer may become insolvent or otherwise be unable to make all payments due in respect of the Notes.

Investors' should note that the Issuer is licensed as a credit institution in France and as such subject to the new resolution regime introduced by the EU Bank Recovery and Resolution Directive of 15 May 2014. This new regulation, among others, gives resolution authorities the power to amend the key terms of the Notes (including but not limited to the maturity date or the payment of interest), to write-down the claims of unsecured creditors of a failing credit institution and to convert certain unsecured debt claims (including Notes) to equity. In case of resolution of the Issuer, the claims under Notes issued under the Programme could be reduced (including to zero) or converted to equity.

There is a wide range of factors which individually or together could result in the Issuer becoming unable to make all payments due in respect of the Notes. It is not possible to identify all such factors or to determine which factors are most likely to occur, as the Issuer may not be aware of all relevant factors and certain factors which it currently deems not to be material may become material as a result of the occurrence of events outside the Issuer's control. The Issuer has identified in the BNPP 2018 Registration Document (in English) and the First Update to the BNPP 2018 Registration Document (in English) incorporated by reference herein a number of factors which could materially adversely affect its business and ability to make payments due under the Notes.

In addition, factors which are material for the purpose of assessing the market risks associated with Notes issued under the Programme are also described below.

Prospective investors should also read the detailed information set out elsewhere in this Base Prospectus and reach their own views prior to making any investment decision.

Terms used in this section and not otherwise defined have the meanings given to them in the relevant Conditions.

Risks Relating to the Bank and its Industry

See "Risk Factors" under Chapter 5 on pages 287 to 295 of the BNPP 2018 Registration Document (in English) and pages 73 and 77 of the First Update to the BNPP 2018 Registration Document (in English) (each, as defined below), each of which is incorporated by reference in this document.

Risk Factors

The principal risks to which the Group is exposed are presented below. They may be measured through risk-weighted assets or other indicia to the extent risk-weighted assets are not relevant.

Credit risk: Credit risk is defined as the probability of a borrower or counterparty defaulting on its obligations to the Bank. Probability of default along with the recovery rate of the loan or debt in the event of default are essential elements in assessing credit quality. The Bank's risk-weighted assets subject to this type of risk amounted to EUR 504 billion at 31 December 2018. In accordance with the EBA recommendations, this category of risk also includes risks on equity investments, as well as those related to insurance activities.

Operational risk: Operational risk is the risk of loss resulting from failed or inadequate internal processes (particularly those involving personnel and information systems) or external events, whether deliberate, accidental or natural (floods, fires, earthquakes, terrorist attacks, etc.). Operational risks include fraud, human resources risks, legal and reputational risks, non-compliance risks, tax risks, information systems risks, risk of providing inadequate financial services (conduct risk), risk of failure of operational processes including credit processes, or from the use of a model (model risk), as well as potential financial consequences related to reputation risk management. The Bank's risk-weighted assets subject to this type of risk amounted to EUR 73 billion at 31 December 2018.

Counterparty risk: Counterparty risk arises from the Bank's credit risk in the specific context of market transactions, investments, and/or settlements. The amount of this risk varies over time depending on fluctuations in market parameters affecting the potential future value of the transactions concerned.

The Bank's risk-weighted assets subject to this type of risk amounted to EUR 27 billion at 31 December 2018.

Market risk: Market risk is the risk of loss of value caused by an unfavorable trend in prices or market parameters. Market parameters include, but are not limited to, exchange rates, prices of securities and commodities (whether the price is directly quoted or obtained by reference to a comparable asset), the price of derivatives on an established market and all benchmarks that can be derived from market quotations such as interest rates, credit spreads, volatility or implicit correlations or other similar parameters. The Bank's risk-weighted assets subject to this type of risk amounted to EUR 20 billion at 31 December 2018.

Securitisation risk: Securitisation is a transaction or arrangement by which the credit risk associated with a liability or set of liabilities is subdivided into tranches. Any commitment made under a securitisation structure (including derivatives and liquidity lines) is considered to be a securitisation. The bulk of these commitments are in the prudential banking portfolio. The Bank's risk-weighted assets subject to this type of risk amounted to EUR 7 billion at 31 December 2018.

Risks related to deferred taxes and certain holdings in credit or financial institutions: amounts below the prudential capital deduction thresholds generate risk-weighted assets amounting to EUR 17 billion at 31 December 2018.

Liquidity risk: Liquidity risk is the risk that the Bank will not be able to honor its commitments or unwind or offset a position due to market conditions or specific factors within a specified period of time and at a reasonable cost. It reflects the risk of not being able to cope with net cash outflows, including collateral requirements, over short-term to long-term horizons. The Group's specific risk can be assessed through its short-term liquidity ratio (Liquidity Coverage Ratio – LCR), which analyzes the hedging of net cash outflows during a thirty-day stress period.

More generally, the risks to which the Group is exposed may arise from a number of factors related, among others, to changes in its macroeconomic, competitive, market and regulatory environment or the implementation of its strategy, its business or its operations.

These risk factors are described in detail below.

Risks Related to the Macroeconomic Environment

Adverse economic and financial conditions have in the past had and may in the future have an impact on the Bank and the markets in which it operates.

The Bank's business is sensitive to changes in the financial markets and more generally to economic conditions in France, Europe and the rest of the world. A deterioration in economic conditions in the markets where the Bank operates could have some or all of the following impacts:

- Adverse economic conditions could affect the business and operations of the Bank's customers, reducing credit demand and trading volume and resulting in an increased rate of default on loans and receivables;
- A decline in market prices of bonds, shares and commodities could impact many of the businesses of the Bank, including in particular trading, investment banking and asset management revenues;
- Macroeconomic policies adopted in response to actual or anticipated economic conditions could have unintended effects, and are likely to impact market parameters such as interest rates and foreign exchange rates, which in turn could affect the Bank's businesses that are most exposed to market risk;
- Perceived favourable economic conditions generally or in specific business sectors could result in asset price bubbles, which could in turn exacerbate the impact of corrections when conditions become less favourable;
- A significant economic disruption (such as the global financial crisis of 2008 or the European sovereign debt crisis of 2011) could have a severe impact on all of the Bank's activities, particularly if the disruption is characterised by an absence of market liquidity that makes it difficult to sell certain categories of assets at their estimated market value or at all;

- A significant deterioration of market and economic conditions resulting from, among other things, from adverse political and geopolitical events such as natural disasters, societal unrest, geopolitical tensions (in particular protectionist measures), acts of terrorism, cyber attacks, military conflicts or threats thereof and related risks could affect the operating environment for financial institutions episodically or for extended periods.

European markets may be affected by a number of factors in 2019, including continuing uncertainty resulting from the decision of the United Kingdom to leave the European Union and uncertain political and economic conditions in certain large European countries. Markets in the United States may be affected by factors, such as trade policy or a tendency towards political stalemate, which has affected credit and currency markets globally. Asian markets could be impacted by factors such as slower than expected economic growth rates in certain countries in the region.

Share prices have recently experienced significant volatility, which may occur again. Credit markets and the value of fixed income assets could be adversely affected if interest rates were to rise as central banks continue to scale back the extraordinary support measures put in place in response to recent adverse economic conditions. The price of oil has been particularly volatile in recent months, and could be impacted by unpredictable geopolitical factors in regions such as the Middle East and Russia.

More generally, increased volatility of financial markets could adversely affect the Bank's trading and investment positions in the debt, currency, commodity and equity markets, as well as its positions in other investments. Severe market disruptions and extreme market volatility have occurred in recent years and may occur again in the future, which could result in significant losses for the Bank. Such losses may extend to a broad range of trading and hedging products, including swaps, forward and future contracts, options and structured products. The volatility of financial markets makes it difficult to predict trends and implement effective trading strategies.

It is difficult to predict when economic or market downturns will occur, and which markets will be most significantly impacted. If economic or market conditions in France or elsewhere in Europe, or global markets more generally, were to deteriorate or become more volatile, the Bank's operations could be disrupted, and its business, results of operations and financial condition could be adversely affected.

Given the global scope of its activities, the Bank may be vulnerable to certain political, macroeconomic or financial risks in the countries and regions where it operates.

The Bank is subject to country risk, meaning the risk that economic, financial, political or social conditions in a given foreign country in which it operates, could affect its business and results. The Bank monitors country risk and takes it into account in the fair value adjustments and cost of risk recorded in its financial statements. However, a significant change in political or macroeconomic environments may require it to record additional charges or to incur losses beyond the amounts previously written down in its financial statements. In addition, factors specific to a country or region in which the Bank operates could make it difficult for it to carry out its business and lead to losses or impairment of assets.

As of 31 December 2018, 32% of the Bank's credit exposure was comprised of exposures in France, 14% in Belgium and Luxembourg, 10% in Italy, 19% in other European countries, 13% in North America and 6% in Asia. Adverse conditions that particularly affect these countries and regions would have a particularly significant impact on the Bank. In addition, the Group has significant exposures in countries outside the OECD, which are subject to risks that include political instability, unpredictable regulation and taxation, expropriation and other risks that are less present in more developed economies.

The Bank's access to and cost of funding could be adversely affected by a resurgence of financial crises, worsening economic conditions, rating downgrades, increases in credit spreads or other factors.

The financial crisis, the euro zone sovereign debt crisis as well as the general macroeconomic environment have at times adversely affected the availability and cost of funding for European banks in recent years. This was due to several factors, including a sharp increase in the perception of bank credit risk due to exposure to sovereign debt in particular, credit rating downgrades of sovereigns and of banks, and debt market speculation. Many European banks, including the Bank, at various points experienced restricted access to wholesale debt markets and to the interbank market, as well as a general increase in their cost of funding. Accordingly, reliance on direct borrowing from the European Central Bank (the "ECB") at times increased substantially. If such adverse credit market conditions were to reappear in the event of prolonged stagnation of growth, deflation, resurgence of the financial crisis, the sovereign debt crisis or new forms of financial crises, factors relating to the financial industry in general or to the Bank in particular, the effect on the liquidity of the European financial sector in general and the Bank in particular could be materially adverse and have a negative impact on the Bank's results of operations and financial condition.

The prolonged low interest rate environment carries inherent systemic risks, and an exit from such environment also carries risks.

Since the 2008-2009 financial crisis, global markets have been characterized by an extended period of low interest rates. If the low interest rate environment continues, the Bank's profitability may be affected. During such periods, interest rate spreads tend to tighten, and the Bank may be unable to lower interest rates on deposits sufficiently to offset reduced income from lending at lower interest rates. In addition, the Bank has been facing and may continue to face an increase in early repayment and refinancing of mortgages and other fixed-rate consumer and corporate loans as clients take advantage of lower borrowing costs. This, along with the issuance of new loans at the low prevailing market interest rates, has resulted and may continue to result in a decrease in the average interest rate of the Bank's portfolio of loans thereby causing a decline in the Bank's net interest income from its lending activities. Moreover, an environment of persistently low interest rates can also have the effect of flattening the yield curve in the market more generally, which could reduce the premium generated by the Bank from its funding activities.

A flattening yield curve can also influence financial institutions to engage in riskier activities in an effort to earn the desired levels of returns, which can increase overall market risk and volatility. Low interest rates may also negatively affect the profitability of the Bank's insurance activities, which may not be able to generate sufficient returns to be competitive with other investment products. Low interest rates may also adversely affect commissions charged by the Bank's asset management subsidiaries on money market and other fixed income products. A reduction in credit spreads and decline in retail banking income resulting from lower portfolio interest rates may adversely affect the profitability of the Bank's retail banking operations.

On the other hand, the end of a period of prolonged low interest rates, in particular due to tightening monetary policy, also carries risks. In this respect, the U.S. Federal Reserve is currently tightening its monetary policy and the ECB announced the end of its quantitative easing policy in December 2018, which could result in an increase in interest rates in the future. If market interest rates were to rise, a portfolio featuring significant amounts of lower interest loans and fixed income assets would be expected to decline in value. If the Bank's hedging strategies are ineffective or provide only a partial hedge against such a change in value, the Bank could incur losses. Any sharper or more rapid than expected tightening could have a negative impact on the economic recovery. On the lending side, it could in particular cause stress in loan and bond portfolios possibly leading to an increase in non-performing exposures and defaults. More generally, the ending of accommodative monetary policies (including liquidity infusions from central bank asset purchases) may lead to severe corrections in certain markets or asset classes (e.g. non-investment grade corporate and sovereign borrowers, certain sectors of equities and real estate) that particularly benefitted (including from very low risk premia as compared to historical averages) from the prolonged low interest rate and high liquidity environment, and such corrections could potentially be contagious to financial markets generally, including through substantially increased volatility.

Risks Related to the Market Environment

Significant interest rate changes could adversely affect the Bank's revenues or profitability.

The amount of net interest income earned by the Bank during any given period significantly affects its overall revenues and profitability for that period. Interest rates are highly sensitive to many factors beyond the Bank's control, such as the rate of inflation, country-specific monetary policies and certain decisions concerning regulatory capital. Changes in market interest rates could affect the interest rates charged on interest-earning assets differently than the interest rates paid on interest-bearing liabilities. Any adverse change in the yield curve could cause a decline in net interest income from the Bank's lending activities. In addition, increases in the interest rates at which the Bank's short-term funding is available and maturity mismatches may adversely affect its profitability.

The soundness and conduct of other financial institutions and market participants could adversely affect the Bank.

The Bank's ability to engage in financing, investment and derivative transactions could be adversely affected by the soundness of other financial institutions or market participants. Financial institutions are interrelated as a result of trading, clearing, counterparty, funding or other relationships. As a result, defaults, or even rumours or questions about, one or more financial services institutions, or the financial services industry generally, may lead to market-wide liquidity problems and could lead to further losses or defaults. The Bank has exposure to many counterparties in the financial industry, directly and indirectly, including clearing houses, brokers and dealers, commercial banks, investment banks, mutual and alternative investment funds, and other institutional clients with which it regularly executes transactions. The Bank may also be exposed to risks related to the increasing involvement in the financial sector of players and the introduction of new types of transactions subject to little or no regulation (e.g. unregulated funds, trading venues or crowdfunding platforms). Credit and counterparty risks could be exacerbated if the collateral held by the Bank cannot be realised upon or is liquidated at prices not sufficient to recover the full amount of the loan or derivative exposure due to the Bank or in case of a failure of a significant financial market participant such as a central counterparty. It is worth noting in this respect that regulatory changes requiring mandatory clearing of standardised over-the-counter ("OTC") derivatives through central counterparties have resulted in an increase of the exposure of financial market participants to such central counterparties.

In addition, fraud or misconduct by financial market participants can have a material adverse effect on financial institutions due in particular to the interrelated nature of the financial markets. An example is the fraud perpetrated by Bernard Madoff that came to light in 2008, as a result of which numerous financial institutions globally, including the Bank, announced losses or exposure to losses in substantial amounts. The Bank remains the subject of various claims in connection with the Madoff matter: see Note 5.b "Contingent liabilities: legal proceedings and arbitration", to the BNPP 2018 Registration Document (in English).

There can be no assurance that any losses resulting from the risks summarised above will not materially and adversely affect the Bank's results of operations.

The Bank may incur significant losses on its trading and investment activities due to market fluctuations and volatility.

The Bank maintains trading and investment positions in the debt, currency, commodity and equity markets, and in unlisted securities, real estate and other asset classes, including through derivative contracts. These positions could be adversely affected by extreme volatility in these markets, i.e., the degree to which prices fluctuate over a particular period in a particular market, regardless of market levels. Moreover, volatility trends that prove substantially different from the Bank's expectations may lead to losses relating to a broad range of other products that the Bank uses, including swaps, forward and future contracts, options and structured products.

To the extent that the Bank owns assets, or has net long positions, in any of those markets, a market downturn could result in losses from a decline in the value of its positions. Conversely, to the extent that the Bank has sold assets that it does not own, or has net short positions in any of those markets, a market upturn could, in spite of the existing limitation of risks and control systems, expose it to potentially substantial losses as it attempts to cover its net short positions by acquiring assets in a rising market. The Bank may from time to time hold a long position in one asset and a short position in another, in order to hedge transactions with clients and/or from which it expects to gain based on changes in the relative value of the two assets. If, however, the relative value of the two assets changes in a direction or manner that the Bank did not anticipate or against which it is not hedged, the Bank might realise a loss on those paired positions. Such losses, if significant, could adversely affect the Bank's results and financial condition.

The Group uses a "value at risk" model to quantify its exposure to potential losses from market risks, and also performs stress testing with a view to quantifying its potential exposure in extreme scenarios. However, these techniques rely on statistical methodologies based on historical observations, which may turn out to be unreliable predictors of future market conditions. Accordingly, the Group's exposure to market risk in extreme scenarios could be greater than the exposures predicted by its quantification techniques.

The Bank may generate lower revenues from commission and fee-based businesses during market downturns.

Financial and economic conditions affect the number and size of transactions for which the Bank provides securities underwriting, financial advisory and other investment banking services. These revenues, which include fees from these services, are directly related to the number and size of the transactions in which it participates and can thus be significantly affected by economic or financial changes that are unfavourable to its Investment Banking business and clients. In addition, because the fees that the Bank charges for managing its clients' portfolios are in many cases based on the value or performance of those portfolios, a market downturn that reduces the value of its clients' portfolios or increases the amount of withdrawals would reduce the revenues the Bank receives from its asset management, equity derivatives and private banking businesses. Independently of market changes, below-market performance by the Bank's mutual funds may result in increased withdrawals and reduced inflows, which would reduce the revenues the Bank receives from its asset management business. The Bank experienced some or all of these effects during the various significant market downturns of recent years and could experience them again in future market downturns, which may occur periodically and unexpectedly.

Protracted market declines can reduce liquidity in the markets, making it harder to sell assets and possibly leading to material losses.

In some of the Bank's businesses, particularly Global Markets and Asset/Liability Management, protracted market movements, particularly asset price declines, can reduce the level of activity in the market or reduce market liquidity. These developments can lead to material losses if the Bank cannot close out deteriorating positions in a timely way. This is particularly true for assets that are intrinsically illiquid. Assets that are not traded on stock exchanges or other public trading markets, such as certain derivative contracts between financial institutions, may have values that the Bank calculates using models rather than publicly-quoted prices. Monitoring the deterioration of prices of assets like these is difficult and could lead to significant losses that the Bank did not anticipate.

The Bank must ensure that its assets and liabilities properly match in order to avoid exposure to losses.

The Bank is exposed to the risk that the maturity, interest rate or currencies of its assets might not match those of its liabilities. The timing of payments on many of the Bank's assets is uncertain, and if the Bank receives lower revenues than expected at a given time, it might require additional funding from the market in order to meet its obligations on its liabilities. While the Bank imposes strict limits on the gaps between its assets and its liabilities as part of its risk management procedures, it cannot be certain that these limits will be fully effective to eliminate potential losses arising from asset and liability mismatches.

Regulatory Risks

Laws and regulations adopted in recent years, particularly in response to the global financial crisis, as well as new legislative proposals, may materially impact the Bank and the financial and economic environment in which it operates.

Laws and regulations have been enacted in the past few years or could be adopted, in particular in France, Europe and the United States, with a view to introducing a number of changes, some permanent, in the financial environment. The impact of the measures has changed substantially the environment in which the Bank and other financial institutions operate. The measures that have been or may be proposed and adopted include:

- more stringent capital and liquidity requirements (particularly for global systemically important banks such as the Bank), as well as changes to the risk-weighting methodologies and the methods of using internal models that could lead to increased capital requirements;
- restrictions on certain types of activities considered as speculative undertakings by commercial banks that are prohibited or need to be ring fenced in subsidiaries (particularly proprietary trading) and are subject to prudential requirements and autonomous financing;

- restrictions or prohibitions on certain types of financial products or activities, enhanced recovery and resolution regimes, in particular the Bank Recovery and Resolution Directive of 15 May 2014, as amended (including by the Directive (EU) 2019/879 of the European Parliament and of the Council of 20 May 2019 amending Directive 2014/59/EU as regards the loss-absorbing and recapitalisation capacity of credit institutions and investment firms and Directive 98/26/EC), (the "BRRD"), which strengthens powers to prevent and resolve banking crises in order to ensure that losses are borne largely by the creditors and shareholders of the banks and in order to keep the costs incurred by taxpayers to a minimum;
- the establishment of the national resolution funds by the BRRD and the creation of the Single Resolution Board (the "SRB") by the European Parliament and Council of the European Union in a resolution dated 15 July 2014, which can initiate resolution proceedings for banking institutions such as the Bank, and the Single Resolution Fund (the "SRF"), whose financing is provided for by the Bank (up to its annual contribution) and can be significant;
- the establishment of national deposit guarantee schemes and a proposed European deposit guarantee scheme or deposit insurance which will gradually cover all or part of the guarantee schemes of participating countries;
- increased internal control and reporting requirements with respect to certain activities;
- more stringent governance and conduct of business rules and restrictions and increased taxes on employee compensation over specified levels;
- measures to improve the transparency, efficiency and integrity of financial markets and in particular the regulation of high frequency trading, more extensive market abuse regulations, increased regulation of certain types of financial products including mandatory reporting of derivative and securities financing transactions, requirements either to mandatorily clear, or otherwise mitigate risks in relation to, over the counter derivative transactions (including through posting of collateral in respect of non centrally cleared derivatives);
- the taxation of financial transactions;
- enhanced privacy and cybersecurity requirements; and
- strengthening the powers of supervisory bodies, such as the French Prudential Supervision and Resolution Authority (the "ACPR") and the creation of new authorities, including the adoption of the Single Resolution Mechanism in October 2013, which placed the Bank under the direct supervision of the ECB as of November 2014.

It is impossible to predict what additional measures will be adopted and, given the complexity and continuing uncertainty of a certain number of these measures, to determine their impact on the Bank. The cumulative effect of these measures, whether already adopted or in the process of being adopted, has been and could continue to be a decrease in the Bank's ability to allocate its capital and capital resources to financing, limit its ability to diversify risks, reduce the availability of certain financing and liquidity resources, increase the cost of financing, increase the cost or reduce the demand for the products and services offered by the Bank, require the Bank to proceed with internal reorganizations, structural changes or reallocations, affect the ability of the Bank to carry on certain activities or to attract and/or retain and, more generally, affect its competitiveness and profitability, which could have an impact on its profitability, financial condition and operating results.

The Bank could become subject to a resolution proceeding.

The BRRD and the Ordinance of 20 August 2015 confer upon the ACPR or the SRB the power to commence resolution proceedings for a banking institution, such as the Bank, with a view to ensure the continuity of critical functions, to avoid the risks of contagion and to recapitalize or restore the viability of the institution.

These powers are to be implemented so that, subject to certain exceptions, losses are borne first by shareholders, then by holders of additional capital instruments qualifying as tier 1 and tier 2 (such as subordinated bonds), then by the holders of senior non preferred debt and finally by the holders of senior preferred debt, all in accordance with the order of their claims in normal insolvency proceedings.

Resolution authorities have broad powers to implement resolution measures with respect to institutions and groups subject to resolution proceedings, which may include (without limitation): the total or partial sale of the institution's business to a third party or a bridge institution, the separation of assets, the replacement or substitution of the institution as obligor in respect of debt instruments, the full or partial write down of capital instruments, the dilution of capital instruments through the issuance of new equity, the full or partial write down or conversion into equity of debt instruments, modifications to the terms of debt instruments (including altering the maturity and/or the amount of interest payable and/or imposing a temporary suspension on payments), discontinuing the listing and admission to trading of financial instruments, the dismissal of managers or the appointment of a special manager (administrateur special).

Certain powers, including the full or partial write down of capital instruments, the dilution of capital instruments through the issuance of new equity, the full or partial write down or conversion into equity of additional capital instruments qualifying as tier 1 and tier 2 (such as subordinated bonds), can also be exercised as a precautionary measure, outside of resolution proceedings and/or pursuant to the European Commission's State Aid framework if the institution requires exceptional public financial support.

The implementation of these tools and powers with respect to the Bank may result in significant structural changes to the Group (including as a result of asset or business sales or the creation of bridge institutions) and in a partial or total write down, modification or variation of claims of shareholders and creditors. Such powers may also result, after any transfer of all or part of the Bank's business or separation of any of its assets, in the holders of securities (even in the absence of any such write down or conversion) being left as the creditors of the Bank whose remaining business or assets are insufficient to support the claims of all or any of the creditors of the Bank.

The Bank is subject to extensive and evolving regulatory regimes in the jurisdictions in which it operates.

The Bank faces the risk of changes in legislation or regulation in all of the countries in which it operates, including, but not limited to, the following:

- monetary, liquidity, interest rate and other policies of central banks and regulatory authorities;
- changes in government or regulatory policy that may significantly influence investor decisions, in particular in the markets in which the Group operates;
- changes in regulatory requirements applicable to the financial industry, such as rules relating to applicable governance, remunerations, capital adequacy and liquidity frameworks, restrictions on activities considered as speculative and recovery and resolution frameworks;
- changes in securities regulations as well as in financial reporting, disclosure and market abuse regulations;
- changes in the regulation of certain types of transactions and investments, such as derivatives and securities financing transactions and money market funds;
- changes in the regulation of market infrastructures, such as trading venues, central counterparties, central securities depositories, and payment and settlement systems;
- changes in the regulation of payment service, crowdfunding and fintech;
- changes in the regulation of data privacy and cyber security;
- changes in tax legislation or the application thereof;
- changes in accounting norms;
- changes in rules and procedures relating to internal controls, risk management and compliance; and
- expropriation, nationalisation, price controls, exchange controls, confiscation of assets and changes in legislation relating to foreign ownership.

These changes, the scope and implications of which are highly unpredictable, could substantially affect the Bank and have an adverse effect on its business, financial condition and results of operations. Some reforms not aimed specifically at financial institutions, such as measures relating to the funds industry or promoting technological innovation (such as open data projects), could facilitate the entry of new players in the financial services sector or otherwise affect the Bank's business model, competitiveness and profitability, which could in turn affect its financial condition and results of operations.

The Bank may incur substantial fines and other administrative and criminal penalties for non-compliance with applicable laws and regulations, and may also incur losses in related (or unrelated) litigation with private parties.

The Bank is exposed to regulatory compliance risk, i.e. the failure to comply fully with the laws, regulations, codes of conduct, professional norms or recommendations applicable to the financial services industry. This risk is exacerbated by the adoption by different countries of multiple and occasionally diverging and even conflicting legal or regulatory requirements. Besides damage to the Bank's reputation and private rights of action (including class actions), non-compliance could lead to material legal proceedings, fines and expenses (including fines and expenses in excess of recorded provisions), public reprimand, enforced suspension of operations or, in extreme cases, withdrawal by the authorities of operating licenses. This risk is further exacerbated by continuously increasing regulatory scrutiny of financial institutions, as well as substantial increases in the quantum of applicable fines and penalties. Moreover, litigation by private parties against financial institutions has substantially increased in recent years. Accordingly, the Bank faces significant legal risk in its business, and the volume and amount of damages claimed in litigation, regulatory proceedings and other adversarial proceedings against financial services firms have substantially increased in recent years and may increase further.

In this respect, on 30 June 2014 the Bank entered into a series of agreements with, and was the subject of several orders issued by, U.S. federal and New York state government agencies and regulatory authorities in settlement of investigations into violations of U.S. laws and regulations regarding economic sanctions. The fines and penalties imposed on the Bank as part of this settlement included, among other things, the payment of monetary penalties amounting in the aggregate to $8.97 billion (€6.6 billion) and guilty pleas by BNP Paribas S.A., the parent company of the BNP Paribas group, to charges of having violated U.S. federal criminal law and New York State criminal law. Following this settlement, the Bank remains subject to increased scrutiny by regulatory authorities (including via the presence within the Bank of an independent consultant) who are monitoring its compliance with a remediation plan agreed with them.

The Bank is currently involved in various litigations and investigations as summarised in Note 5.b "Contingent liabilities: legal proceedings and arbitration" to the BNPP 2018 Registration Document (in English). It may become involved in further such matters at any point. No assurance can be given that an adverse outcome in one or more of such matters would not have a material adverse effect on the Bank's operating results for any particular period.

Risks Related to the Implementation of the Bank's Strategy

Risks related to the implementation of the Bank's strategic plans.

The Bank announced a strategic plan for the 2017-2020 period on 7 February 2017. This plan contemplates a number of initiatives, including the implementation of new customer pathways, the digital transformation of the Bank, continuing to improve operating efficiency and various business development initiatives. The Bank closely monitors these initiatives and provided an update on its 2020 targets on 6 February 2019.

The plan also includes a number of financial targets and objectives relating to net banking income, operating costs, net income, capital adequacy ratios and return on equity, among other things. These financial targets and objectives were established primarily for purposes of internal planning and allocation of resources, and are based on a number of assumptions with regard to business and economic conditions.

The Bank's actual results could vary significantly from these targets and objectives for a number of reasons, including the occurrence of one or more of the risk factors described elsewhere in this section.

Additionally, as part of the Bank's commitment to environmental responsibility within its corporate social responsibility policy, it has announced a number of initiatives to support the energy transition towards a low-carbon economy, including a reduction in financing for energies with the most negative environmental impact. These measures (and any future ones along similar lines) may in certain cases adversely affect the Bank's results in the relevant sectors.

The Bank may experience difficulties integrating acquired companies and may be unable to realise the benefits expected from its acquisitions.

The Bank makes acquisitions on a regular basis. Integrating acquired businesses is a long and complex process. Successful integration and the realisation of synergies require, among other things, proper coordination of business development and marketing efforts, retention of key members of management, policies for effective recruitment and training as well as the ability to adapt information and computer systems. Any difficulties encountered in combining operations could result in higher integration costs and lower savings or revenues than expected. There will accordingly be uncertainty as to the extent to which anticipated synergies will be achieved and the timing of their realisation. Moreover, the integration of the Bank's existing operations with those of the acquired operations could interfere with the respective businesses and divert management's attention from other aspects of the Bank's business, which could have a negative impact on the business and results of the Bank. In some cases, moreover, disputes relating to acquisitions may have an adverse impact on the integration process or have other adverse consequences, including financial ones.

Although the Bank undertakes an in-depth analysis of the companies it plans to acquire, such analyses often cannot be complete or exhaustive. As a result, the Bank may increase its exposure to doubtful or troubled assets and incur greater risks as a result of its acquisitions, particularly in cases in which it was unable to conduct comprehensive due diligence prior to the acquisition.

Risks Related to the Management of the Bank's Business

The Bank is exposed to credit risk and counterparty risk.

As a credit institution, the Bank is exposed to the creditworthiness of its customers and counterparties. These risks impact the Group's consolidated financial statements when a customer or counterparty is unable to honour its obligations and when the book value of these obligations in the Bank's records is positive. The customer or counterparty may be a bank, a financial institution, an industrial or commercial enterprise, a government and its various entities, an investment fund, or a natural person. If the level of customer or counterparty defaults increases compared to recent historically low levels, the Bank may have to record significant charges for possible bad and doubtful debts, affecting its profitability.

While the Bank seeks to reduce its exposure to credit risk and counterparty risk by using risk mitigation techniques such as collateralization, obtaining guarantees, entering into credit derivatives and entering into netting agreements, it cannot be certain that these techniques will be effective to offset losses resulting from counterparty defaults that are covered by these techniques. Moreover, the Bank is exposed to the risk of default by the party providing the credit risk coverage (such as a counterparty on derivatives) or to the risk of loss of value of any collateral. In addition, only a portion of the Bank's overall credit risk and counterparty risk is covered by these techniques. Accordingly, the Bank has significant exposure to these risks.

A substantial increase in new provisions or a shortfall in the level of previously recorded provisions could adversely affect the Bank's results of operations and financial condition.

In connection with its lending activities, the Bank regularly establishes provisions for loan losses, which are recorded in its profit and loss account under "cost of risk". The Bank's overall level of provisions is based on its assessment of prior loss experience, the volume and type of lending being conducted, industry standards, past due loans, economic conditions and other factors related to the recoverability of various loans or statistical analysis based on scenarios applicable to different asset classes. Although the Bank seeks to establish an appropriate level of provisions, its lending businesses may have to increase their provisions for loan losses substantially in the future as a result of deteriorating economic conditions or other causes. Any significant increase in provisions for loan losses or a significant change in the Bank's estimate of the risk of loss inherent in its portfolio of non-impaired loans, as well as the occurrence of loan losses in excess of the related provisions, could have a material adverse effect on the Bank's results of operations and financial condition.

The Bank's hedging strategies may not prevent losses.

If any of the variety of instruments and strategies that the Bank uses to hedge its exposure to various types of risk in its businesses is not effective, the Bank may incur losses. Many of its strategies are based on historical trading patterns and correlations. For example, if the Bank holds a long position in an asset, it may hedge that position by taking a short position in another asset where the short position has historically moved in a direction that would offset a change in the value of the long position. However, the hedge may only be partial, or the strategies used may not protect against all future risks or may not be fully effective in mitigating the Bank's risk exposure in all market environments or against all types of risk in the future. Unexpected market developments may also reduce the effectiveness of the Bank's hedging strategies. In addition, the manner in which gains and losses resulting from certain ineffective hedges are recorded may result in additional volatility in the Bank's reported earnings.

Adjustments to the carrying value of the Bank's securities and derivatives portfolios and the Bank's own debt could have an impact on its net income and shareholders' equity.

The carrying value of the Bank's securities and derivatives portfolios and certain other assets, as well as its own debt, in its balance sheet is adjusted as of each financial statement date. Most of the adjustments are made on the basis of changes in fair value of its assets or its debt during an accounting period, with the changes recorded either in the income statement or directly in shareholders' equity. Changes that are recorded in the income statement, to the extent not offset by opposite changes in the value of other assets, affect its consolidated revenues and, as a result, its net income. All fair value adjustments affect shareholders' equity and, as a result, its capital adequacy ratios. The fact that fair value adjustments are recorded in one accounting period does not mean that further adjustments will not be needed in subsequent periods.

The credit ratings of the Bank may be downgraded, which would weigh on its profitability.

Credit ratings have a significant impact on the Bank's liquidity. A downgrade in the Bank's credit rating could affect its liquidity and competitive position. It could also increase the Bank's borrowing costs, limit access to the capital markets or trigger additional obligations under its covered bonds or under certain bilateral provisions in some trading, derivative or collateralized financing contacts.

In addition, the Bank's cost of obtaining long term unsecured funding from market investors is also directly related to its credit spreads, which in turn depend to a certain extent on its credit ratings. Increases in credit spreads can significantly increase the Bank's cost of funding. Changes in credit spreads are continuous, market driven, and subject at times to unpredictable and highly volatile movements. Credit spreads are also influenced by market perceptions of the Bank's creditworthiness. Furthermore, credit spreads may be influenced by movements in the cost to purchasers of credit default swaps referenced to the Bank's debt obligations, which are influenced both by the credit quality of those obligations, and by a number of market factors that are beyond the control of the Group.

Intense competition by banking and non banking operators could adversely affect the Bank's revenues and profitability.

Competition is intense in all of the Bank's primary business areas in France and the other countries in which it conducts a substantial portion of its business, including other European countries and the United States. Competition in the banking industry could intensify as a result of consolidation in the financial services area or as a result of the presence of new players in the payment and the financing services area or the development of crowdfunding platforms. In particular, competitors subject to less extensive regulatory requirements or to less strict capital requirements (e.g., debt funds, shadow banks), or benefiting from economies of scale, data synergies or technological innovation (e.g., internet and mobile operators, digital platforms, fintechs), could be more competitive by offering lower prices or more innovative services. In addition, new payment systems and crypto-currencies, such as Bitcoin, and new technology that facilitate transaction processes, such as blockchain, have developed in recent years. While it is difficult to predict the effects of these emerging technologies as well as any applicable regulations, their use could nevertheless reduce the Bank's market share or secure investments that otherwise would have used technology used by more established financial institutions, such as the Bank. If the Bank is unable to respond to the competitive environment in France or in its other major markets by offering attractive, innovative and profitable product and service solutions, it may lose market share in key areas of its business or incur losses on some or all of its activities. In addition, downturns in the economies of its principal markets could add to the competitive pressure, through, for example, increased price pressure and lower business volumes for the Bank and its competitors. It is also possible that the imposition of more stringent requirements (particularly capital requirements and business restrictions) on large or systemically significant financial institutions, could lead to distortions in competition in a manner adverse to large private sector institutions such as the Bank.

Risks Related to the Bank's Operations

The Bank's risk management policies, procedures and methods may leave it exposed to unidentified or unanticipated risks, which could lead to material losses.

The Bank has devoted significant resources to developing its risk management policies, procedures and assessment methods and intends to continue to do so in the future. Nonetheless, the Bank's risk management techniques and strategies may not be fully effective in mitigating its risk exposure in all economic and market environments or against all types of risk, particularly risks that the Bank may have failed to identify or anticipate. The Bank's ability to assess the creditworthiness of its customers or to estimate the values of its assets may be impaired if, as a result of market turmoil such as that experienced in recent years, the models and approaches it uses become less predictive of future behaviour, valuations, assumptions or estimates. Some of the Bank's qualitative tools and metrics for managing risk are based on its use of observed historical market behaviour. The Bank applies statistical and other tools to these observations to arrive at quantifications of its risk exposures. The process the Bank uses to estimate losses inherent in its credit exposure or estimate the value of certain assets requires difficult, subjective, and complex judgments, including forecasts of economic conditions and how these economic predictions might impair the ability of its borrowers to repay their loans or impact the value of assets, which may, during periods of market disruption, be incapable of accurate estimation and, in turn, impact the reliability of the process. These tools and metrics may fail to predict future risk exposures, e.g., if the Bank does not anticipate or correctly evaluate certain factors in its statistical models, or upon the occurrence of an event deemed extremely unlikely by the tools and metrics. This would limit the Bank's ability to manage its risks. The Bank's losses could therefore be significantly greater than the historical measures indicate. In addition, the Bank's quantified modelling does not take all risks into account. Its more qualitative approach to managing certain risks could prove insufficient, exposing it to material unanticipated losses.

An interruption in or a breach of the Bank's information systems may cause substantial losses of client or customer information, damage to the Bank's reputation and financial losses.

As with most other banks, the Bank relies heavily on communications and information systems to conduct its business. This dependency has increased with the spread of mobile and online banking services, and the development of cloud computing and blockchain technologies. Any failure or interruption or breach in security of these systems could result in failures or interruptions in the Bank's customer relationship management, general ledger, deposit, servicing and/or loan organisation systems or could cause the Bank to incur significant costs in recovering and verifying lost data. The Bank cannot provide assurances that such failures or interruptions will not occur or, if they do occur, that they will be adequately addressed.

In addition, the Bank is subject to cybersecurity risk, or risk caused by a malicious and/or fraudulent act, committed virtually, with the intention of manipulating information (confidential data, bank/insurance, technical or strategic), processes and users, in order to cause material losses to the Group's subsidiaries, employees, partners and clients. An increasing number of companies (including financial institutions) have in recent years experienced intrusion attempts or even breaches of their information technology security, some of which have involved sophisticated and highly targeted attacks on their computer networks. Because the techniques used to obtain unauthorised access, disable or degrade service, steal confidential data or sabotage information systems have become more sophisticated, change frequently and often are not recognised until launched against a target, the Bank and its third party service providers may be unable to anticipate these techniques or to implement in a timely manner effective and efficient countermeasures. Any failures of or interruptions in the Bank's information systems or those of its providers and any subsequent disclosure of confidential information related to any client, counterpart or employee of the Bank (or any other person) or any intrusion or attack against the Bank's communication system could cause significant losses and have an adverse effect on the Bank's reputation, financial condition and results of operations.

Moreover, the Bank is exposed to the risk of operational failure or interruption of a clearing agent, foreign markets, clearing houses, custodian banks or any other financial intermediary or external service provider used by the Bank to execute or facilitate financial transactions. Due to its increased interaction with clients, the Bank is also exposed to the risk of operational malfunction of the latter's information systems. The Group's communications and data systems and those of its clients, service providers and counterparties may also be subject to malfunctions or interruptions by as a result of cyber-crime or cyber-terrorism. The Bank cannot guarantee that these malfunction or interruptions in its own systems or those of other parties will not occur or that in the event of a cyberattack, these malfunctions or interruptions will be adequately resolved.

The Bank's competitive position could be harmed if its reputation is damaged.

Considering the highly competitive environment in the financial services industry, a reputation for financial strength and integrity is critical to the Bank's ability to attract and retain customers. The Bank's reputation could be harmed if it fails to adequately promote and market its products and services. The Bank's reputation could also be damaged if, as it increases its client base and the scale of its businesses, the Bank's comprehensive procedures and controls dealing with conflicts of interest fail, or appear to fail, to address conflicts of interest properly. At the same time, the Bank's reputation could be damaged by employee misconduct, fraud or misconduct by market participants to which the Bank is exposed, a decline in, a restatement of, or corrections to its financial results, as well as any adverse legal or regulatory action such as the settlement the Bank entered into in with the U.S. authorities for violations of U.S. laws and regulations regarding economic sanctions. Such risks to reputation have recently increased as a result of the growing use of social networks within the economic sphere. The loss of business that could result from damage to the Bank's reputation could have an adverse effect on its results of operations and financial position.

Risk Factors Relating to the Notes

General

In addition to the risks relating to the Issuer (including the default risk) that may affect the Issuer's ability to fulfil its obligations under the Notes there are certain factors which are material for the purpose of assessing the risks associated with an investment in Notes issued under the Programme.

Such factors will vary depending on the type of Notes issued, in particular in relation to Notes ("Underlying Reference Linked Notes") the interest and/or redemption amount in respect of which is linked to the value of one or more index, share (including shares which are attached to each other trading as a single unit ("Stapled Shares")), GDR or ADR, inflation index, commodity, commodity index, unit, interest or share in a fund, fund index (or basket of fund indices) the credit of one or more reference entity, interest in an exchange traded funds, exchange traded notes, exchange traded commodities or other exchange traded products (each an "exchange traded instrument" or "ETI"), foreign exchange rate, underlying interest rate or the combination of any of the foregoing or such other underlying or basis of reference (each an "Underlying Reference").

The Notes may not be a suitable investment for all investors

Each potential investor of the Notes must make its own determination of the suitability of any such investment, with particular reference to its own investment objectives and experience, and any other factors which may be relevant to it in connection with such investment, either alone or with the help of a financial adviser. In particular, each potential investor should:

- (a) have sufficient knowledge and experience to make a meaningful evaluation of the Notes, the merits and risks of investing in the Notes and the information contained or incorporated by reference in this Base Prospectus or any applicable supplement;

- (b) have access to, and knowledge of, appropriate analytical tools to evaluate, in the context of its particular financial situation and the investment(s) it is considering, an investment in the Notes and the impact the Notes will have on its overall investment portfolio;
- (c) have sufficient financial resources and liquidity to bear all of the risks of an investment in the Notes;
- (d) understand thoroughly the Terms and Conditions of the Notes and be familiar with the behaviour of financial markets and of any financial variable which might have an impact on the return on the Notes; and
- (e) be able to evaluate (either alone or with the help of a financial adviser) possible scenarios for economic, interest rate and other factors that may affect its investment and its ability to bear the applicable risks.

Prospective purchasers should also consult their own tax advisers as to the tax consequences of the purchase, ownership and disposition of Notes.

Minimum Trading Amount

Investors should note that the Notes may have a minimum trading amount. The minimum trading amount (if any) will be specified in the applicable Final Terms. In such cases, if, following the transfer of any Notes, a holder holds fewer Notes than the specified minimum trading amount, such holder will not be permitted to transfer their remaining Notes prior to redemption without first purchasing enough additional Notes in order to hold the minimum trading amount.

Meetings and Collective Decisions of Noteholders

The Terms and Conditions of the Notes contain provisions for collective decisions to consider matters affecting their interests generally to be adopted either through a General Meeting or by consent through a Written Resolution. These provisions permit defined majorities to bind all Noteholders and Couponholders including Noteholders who did not attend and vote at the relevant meeting and Noteholders who voted in a manner contrary to the majority and all Noteholders who did not respond to, or rejected the relevant Written Resolution. Couponholders (for English Law Notes) will be deemed for all purposes to have notice of the contents of any notice given to the Noteholders in accordance with Condition 12 (Notices).

Potential Loss of the Noteholder's Investment in the Notes

Each Noteholder may receive a Final Redemption Amount and/or physical delivery of the Entitlement the aggregate value of which may be less than the value of the Noteholder's investment in the relevant Notes. In certain circumstances Noteholders may lose the entire value of their investment.

Waiver of set-off

The holders of Notes, Receipt or Coupon waive any right of set-off, compensation and retention in relation to such Notes, insofar as permitted by applicable law.

The terms of the Notes contain no negative pledge, and the Issuer is not prohibited from incurring additional debt.

There is no negative pledge in respect of the Notes and the Terms and Conditions of the Notes place no restrictions on the incurrence by the Issuer of additional obligations that rank pari passu with, or senior to, the Notes. In addition, the Issuer may pledge assets to secure other notes or debt instruments without granting an equivalent pledge or security interest and status to the Notes.

The Notes may be undated securities with no specified maturity date

The Notes may be undated securities with no fixed redemption or maturity date. The Issuer is under no obligation to redeem the undated Notes at any time. The Noteholders may not have the right to require the redemption of the Notes except if (i) an Event of Default occurs, in the case of Senior Preferred Notes, or (ii) an order is made or an effective resolution is passed for liquidation (liquidation judiciaire or liquidation amiable) of the Issuer, in the case of Senior Non Preferred Notes and Subordinated Notes.

An early redemption of the Notes may have an adverse economic effect on Noteholders

The Early Redemption Amount payable in circumstances where the Notes are to be redeemed prior to the Maturity Date is specific to each Early Redemption Event specified in the applicable Final Terms. The Calculation Method specified in the applicable Final Terms may vary in respect of each Early Redemption Event and (in respect of Notes which are linked to the performance of an Underlying Reference(s)) may not take into account the potential return on the performance of such underlying reference(s). Following an early redemption, a Noteholder generally would not be able to reinvest the redemption proceeds (if any) at an effective interest rate as high as the interest rate on the relevant Notes being redeemed, and may only be able to do so at a significantly lower rate. As a consequence, the Noteholder may lose some or all of their investment. Potential investors should consider reinvestment risk in light of other investments available at that time.

Risks Relating to Automatic Early Redemption of the Notes

In the case of Notes that include an Automatic Early Redemption feature, the longer the time remaining until the scheduled maturity date of the Notes, the higher the probability that an Automatic Early Redemption Event will occur.

In the event that the relevant level, value or price of the Underlying Reference approaches the level that triggers the Automatic Early Redemption Event, the Noteholder may not be able to sell the Notes in the secondary market before the occurrence of an Automatic Early Redemption Event (see also "Possible Illiquidity of the Notes in the Secondary Market" below). If the Underlying Reference is listed on a different exchange to that on which the Notes are listed, the Automatic Early Redemption Event may occur outside the normal trading hours of the exchange on which the Notes are listed. In this case, the Noteholder may not have an opportunity to sell the Notes in the secondary market before the Automatic Early Redemption Event occurs.

Risk of Loss Following Automatic Early Redemption of the Notes

In the case of Notes that include an Automatic Early Redemption feature, if the relevant level, value or price of the Underlying Reference(s) reaches the level that triggers the Automatic Early Redemption Event, the product will automatically redeem before the scheduled maturity date. Depending on the applicable payout the Noteholder may lose some or all of their investment in the Notes.

A Note's purchase price may not reflect its inherent value

Prospective investors in the Notes should be aware that the purchase price of a Note does not necessarily reflect its inherent value. Any difference between a Note's purchase price and its inherent value may be due to a number of different factors including, without limitation, prevailing market conditions and fees, discounts or commissions paid or accorded to the various parties involved in structuring and/or distributing the Note. For further information prospective investors should refer to the party from whom they are purchasing the Notes. Prospective investors may also wish to seek an independent valuation of Notes prior to their purchase.

A Noteholder's actual yield on the Notes may be reduced from the stated yield by transaction costs

When Notes are purchased or sold, several types of incidental costs (including transaction fees and commissions) are incurred in addition to the current price of the security. These incidental costs may significantly reduce or even exclude the profit potential of the Notes. For instance, credit institutions as a rule charge their clients for own commissions which are either fixed minimum commissions or pro-rata commissions depending on the order value. To the extent that additional – domestic or foreign – parties are involved in the execution of an order, including but not limited to domestic dealers or brokers in foreign markets, Noteholders must take into account that they may also be charged for the brokerage fees, commissions and other fees and expenses of such parties (third party costs).

In addition to such costs directly related to the purchase of securities (direct costs), Noteholders must also take into account any follow-up costs (such as custody fees). Prospective investors should inform themselves about any additional costs incurred in connection with the purchase, custody or sale of the Notes before investing in the Notes.

A Noteholder's effective yield on the Notes may be diminished by the tax impact on that Noteholder of its investment in the Notes

Payments of interest on the Notes, or profits realised by the Noteholder upon the sale or repayment of the Notes, may be subject to taxation in its home jurisdiction or in other jurisdictions in which it is required to pay taxes. The tax impact on an individual Noteholder in respect of any Notes may differ also in respect of Underlying Reference Linked Notes. BNPP advises all investors to contact their own tax advisors for advice on the tax impact of an investment in the Notes.

The value of Fixed Rate Notes may be adversely affected by movements in market interest rates

Investors in Fixed Rate Notes are exposed to the risk that if interest rates subsequently increase above the rate paid on the Fixed Rate Notes, this will adversely affect the value of the Notes.

In addition, a holder of securities with a fixed interest rate that will be periodically reset during the term of the relevant securities, such as Fixed Rate Notes which are specified in the applicable Final Terms as Resetable Notes, is also exposed to the risk of fluctuating interest rate levels and uncertain interest income.

Noteholders will not be able to calculate in advance their rate of return on Floating Rate Notes

A key difference between Floating Rate Notes and Fixed Rate Notes is that interest income on Floating Rate Notes cannot be anticipated. Due to varying interest income, investors are not able to determine a definite yield of Floating Rate Notes at the time they purchase them, so that their return on investment cannot be compared with that of investments having longer fixed interest periods. If the terms and conditions of the Notes provide for frequent interest payment dates, investors are exposed to the reinvestment risk if market interest rates decline. That is, investors may reinvest the interest income paid to them only at the relevant lower interest rates then prevailing. In addition, the Issuer's ability to issue both Fixed Rate Notes may affect the market value and secondary market (if any) of the Floating Rate Notes (and vice versa).

Zero Coupon Notes are subject to higher price fluctuations than non-discounted Notes

Notes which are issued at a substantial discount or premium may experience price volatility in response to changes in market interest rates

Changes in market interest rates generally have a substantially stronger impact on the prices of Zero Coupon Notes than on the prices of ordinary notes because the discounted issue prices are substantially below par. If market interest rates increase, Zero Coupon Notes can suffer higher price losses than other notes having the same maturity and credit rating.

If an investor holds Notes which are not denominated in the investor's home currency, they will be exposed to movements in exchange rates adversely affecting the value of their holding. In addition, the imposition of exchange controls in relation to any Notes could result in an investor not receiving payments on those Notes

Holders of Notes denominated in any currency other than their domestic currency are exposed to the risk of changing foreign exchange rates. This risk is in addition to any performance risk that relates to the Issuer or the type of Note being issued.

Risk related to the absence of restrictions regarding the ability of the Issuer to issue other notes of equal or senior ranking

The terms and conditions of the Notes do not contemplate any restrictions limiting the amount of debt securities of equal or senior ranking that the Issuer could issue. The issuance of such securities could reduce the amount the holders of Notes would receive in case of liquidation of the Issuer.

EU Resolution and Recovery Directive and its implementation in France

On 2 July 2014, the Directive 2014/59/EU providing for the establishment of an EU-wide framework for the recovery and resolution of credit institutions and investment firms (the "Bank Recovery and Resolution Directive" or "BRRD") entered into force.

The implementation of the BRRD in France was made by two main texts of legislative nature. Firstly, the banking law dated 26 July 2013 regarding the separation and the regulation of banking activities (Loi de séparation et de régulation des activités bancaires) (as modified by the ordinance dated 20 February 2014 (Ordonnance portant diverses dispositions d'adaptation de la législation au droit de l'Union européenne en matière financière)) (the "Banking Law") had anticipated the implementation of the BRRD. Secondly, Ordinance no. 2015-1024 dated 20 August 2015 (Ordonnance no 2015-1024 du 20 août 2015 portant diverses dispositions d'adaptation de la législation au droit de l'Union européenne en matière financière) (the "Ordinance") published in the Official Journal on 21 August 2015 ratified by the Law no.2016-1691 of 9 December 2016 relating to transparency, the fight against corruption and the modernisation of economic life (Loi no. 2016-1691 du 9 décembre 2016 relative à la transparence, à la lutte contre la corruption et à la modernisation de la vie économique) has introduced various provisions amending and supplementing the Banking Law to adapt French law to European Union legislation regarding financial matters. Many of the provisions contained in the BRRD were already similar in effect to provisions contained in the Banking Law. Decree no. 2015-1160 dated 17 September 2015 and three orders dated 11 September 2015 (décret et arrêtés) implementing provisions of the Ordinance regarding (i) recovery planning, (ii) resolution planning and (iii) criteria to assess the resolvability of an institution or group, have been published on 20 September 2015 to mostly implement the BRRD in France.

The impact of the BRRD and its implementing provisions on credit institutions, including the Issuer, is currently unclear but its current and future implementation and application to the Issuer or the taking of any action under it could materially affect the activity and financial condition of the Issuer and the value of any Notes.

The aim of the BRRD is to provide resolution authorities with common tools and powers to address banking crises pre-emptively in order to safeguard financial stability and minimize taxpayers' contributions to bank bail-outs (which should be used as a last resort) and/or exposure to losses. The powers provided to authorities (the ACPR or the Single Resolution Board as the case may be in France in the BRRD) are divided into three categories: (i) preparatory steps and plans to minimize the risks of potential problems (preparation and prevention); (ii) in the event of incipient problems, powers to arrest a firm's deteriorating situation at an early stage so as to avoid insolvency (early intervention); and (iii) if insolvency of a firm presents a concern as regards the general public interest, a clear means to reorganize or wind down the firm in an orderly fashion while preserving its critical functions and limiting to the maximum extent any exposure of taxpayers to losses.

Moreover, Regulation (EU) no. 806/2014 of the European Parliament and of the Council of 15 July 2014 establishing uniform rules and a uniform procedure for the resolution of credit institutions and certain investment firms in the framework of a Single Resolution Mechanism and a Single Resolution Fund (the "SRM Regulation") has established a centralised power of resolution entrusted to a Single Resolution Board (the "SRB") in cooperation with the national resolution authorities.

Since November 2014, the European Central Bank ("ECB") has taken over the prudential supervision of significant credit institutions in the member states of the Eurozone under the SSM. In addition, a SRM has been put in place to ensure that the resolution of banks across the Eurozone is harmonised. As mentioned above, the SRM is managed by the SRB. Under Article 5(1) of the SRM Regulation, the SRM has been granted those responsibilities and powers granted to the member states' resolution authorities under the BRRD for those banks subject to direct supervision by the ECB. The ability of the SRB to exercise these powers came into force at the start of 2016.

The Issuer has been designated as a significant supervised entity for the purposes of Article 49(1) of the SSM Regulations and is consequently subject to the direct supervision of the ECB in the context of the SSM. This means that the Issuer is also subject to the SRM which came into force in 2015. The SRM Regulation mirrors the BRRD and, to a large part, refers to the BRRD so that the SRB is able to apply the same powers that would otherwise be available to the relevant national resolution authority.

Under the BRRD and the SRM Regulation, the resolution authority may, when an institution is being considered to have reached the point of non viability (see "Write-down and Conversion of Capital Instruments") commence resolution proceedings and exercise resolution tools and powers in respect of such institution when:

- (a) the institution is failing or likely to fail (as to which see (w) to (z) below);
- (b) there are no reasonable prospects that a private action would prevent the failure; and
- (c) except with respect to capital instruments, a resolution action is necessary and in the public interest.

An institution will be considered as failing or likely to fail when: (w) it is, or is likely in the near future to be, in breach of its requirements for continuing authorisation; (x) its assets are, or are likely in the near future to be, less than its liabilities; (y) it is, or is likely in the near future to be, unable to pay its debts as they fall due; or (z) it requires extraordinary public financial support (except in limited circumstances).

The BRRD and the SRM Regulation currently contain four resolution tools and powers:

- (i) sale of business: enables resolution authorities to direct the sale of the firm or the whole or part of its business on commercial terms without requiring the consent of the shareholders or complying with the procedural requirements that would otherwise apply;
- (ii) bridge institution: enables resolution authorities to transfer all or part of the business of the firm to a "bridge bank" (a public controlled entity holding such business or part of a business with a view to reselling it);
- (iii) asset separation: enables resolution authorities to transfer impaired or problem assets to asset management vehicles to allow such assets to be managed and worked out over time; and
- (iv) bail-in: gives resolution authorities the power to write-down the claims of unsecured creditors of a failing institution and to convert certain unsecured debt claims (including Notes) to equity (the "general bail-in tool"), which equity could also be subject to any future cancellation, transfer or dilution by application of the general bail-in tool.

The SRM Regulation also provides that in exceptional circumstances, where the general bail-in tool is applied, the relevant resolution authority - i.e. the SRB - may exclude or partially exclude certain liabilities from the application of the write-down or conversion powers, in particular where: (a) it is not possible to bail-in that liability within a reasonable time; (b) the exclusion is strictly necessary and is proportionate to achieve the continuity of critical functions and core business lines of the institution under resolution; (c) the exclusion is strictly necessary and proportionate to avoid giving rise to widespread contagion, which would severely disrupt the functioning of financial markets, including of financial market infrastructures, in a manner that could cause a serious disturbance to the economy of a Member State of the European Union; or (d) the application of the general bail-in tool to those liabilities would cause a destruction in value such that the losses borne by other creditors would be higher than if those liabilities were excluded from bail-in. Consequently, where the relevant resolution authority decides to exclude or partially exclude an eligible liability or class of eligible liabilities, the level of write down or conversion applied to other eligible liabilities – due to Noteholders as the case may be - when not excluded, may be increased to take account of such exclusions. Subsequently, if the losses that would have been borne by those liabilities have not been passed on fully to other creditors, the Single Resolution Fund (the "SRF") the French "Resolution and Deposits Guarantee Fund" (Fonds de garantie des dépôts et de résolution) or any other equivalent arrangement from a Member State, may make a contribution to the institution under resolution, under certain limits, including the requirement that such contribution does not exceed 5% of the global liabilities of such institution to (i) cover any losses which have not been absorbed by eligible liabilities and restore the net asset value of the institution under resolution to zero and/or (ii) purchase shares or other instruments of ownership or capital instruments in the institution under resolution, in order to recapitalise the institution. The last step - if there are losses left - would be an extraordinary public financial support through additional financial stabilisation tools. Any such extraordinary financial support must be provided in accordance with the EU state aid framework.

The powers set out in the BRRD and the SRM Regulation will impact how credit institutions, including the Issuer, and investment firms are managed as well as, in certain circumstances, the rights of creditors. In particular, Noteholders may be subject to write-down (including to zero) or conversion into equity on any application of the general bail-in tool (including amendment of the terms of the Notes such as a variation of the maturity), which may result in such holders losing some or all of their investment. The exercise of any power under the BRRD and the SRM Regulation as applied to the Issuer or any suggestion of such exercise could, therefore, materially adversely affect the rights of the Noteholders, the price or value of their investment in any Notes and/or the ability of the Issuer to satisfy its obligations under any Notes.

The powers currently set out in the BRRD and the SRM Regulation are expected to impact how credit institutions, including the Issuer, and large investment firms (those which are required to hold initial capital of EUR 730,000 by the fourth Capital Requirements Directive ("CRD") are managed as well as, in certain circumstances, the rights of creditors. For Member States (including France) participating in the Banking Union, the Single Resolution Mechanism (the "SRM") fully harmonises the range of available tools but Member States are authorized to introduce additional tools at national level to deal with crises, as long as they are compatible with the resolution objectives and principles set out in the BRRD.

The Single Resolution Board works in close cooperation with the ACPR, in particular in relation to the elaboration of resolution planning, and has assumed full resolution powers since 1 January 2016 as the conditions for transfer of national contributions to the Single Resolution Fund were met by this date. It is not yet possible to assess the full impact of the BRRD and the French law provisions implementing the BRRD on the Issuer and there can be no assurance that its implementation or the taking of any actions currently contemplated in it will not adversely affect the rights of Noteholders, the price or value of their investment in the Notes and/or the ability of the Issuer to satisfy its obligations under the Notes.

Following the publication on 7 June 2019 in the Official Journal of the Directive (EU) 2019/879 of the European Parliament and of the Council of 20 May 2019 amending the BRRD (the "BRRD II") as regards the loss-absorbing and recapitalisation capacity of credit institutions and investment firms and Directive 98/26/EC and of the Regulation (EU) 2019/877 of the European Parliament and of the Council of 20 May 2019 amending the Single Resolution Mechanism Regulation (Regulation 806/2014) as regards the loss-absorbing and recapitalisation capacity of credit institutions and investment firms, a comprehensive legislative package reducing risks in the banking sector and further reinforcing banks' ability to withstand potential shocks will strengthen the banking union and reduce risks in the financial system from 28 December 2020. The Total Loss-Absorbing Capacity ("TLAC") published by the Financial Stability Board will be implemented in accordance with the FSB Term Sheet (the "TLAC standard"). Consequently eligibility criteria for liabilities that may be subject to bail-in for the MREL will be closely aligned with those laid down in Regulation (EU) No 575/2013 for the TLAC minimum requirement, but subject to the complementary adjustments and requirements introduced in the BRRD II. In particular, certain debt instruments with an embedded derivative component, such as certain structured notes, will be eligible, subject to certain conditions, to meet the MREL to the extent that they have a fixed or increasing principal amount repayable at maturity that is known in advance while only an additional return is linked to that derivative component and depends on the performance of a reference asset.

In addition, as a result of the introduction of a resolution regime, the liquidity of financial instruments subject to the resolution regime could become vulnerable to conditions/situations of stress in the financial markets. Investors should also note that the concentration risk to which they may be subject by investing in securities of the Issuer should also be assessed at the financial sector level i.e. by taking into account not only the securities of the Issuer that they hold but also all securities that they hold and which have been issued by financial entities subject to the bail-in regime.

The implementation of the minimum requirement for own funds and eligible liabilities ("MREL") is subject to future requirements

Article 45 of the BRRD provides that Member States shall ensure that institutions meet, at all times, a minimum requirement for own funds and eligible liabilities (known as MREL). The MREL shall be calculated as the amount of own funds and eligible liabilities expressed as a percentage of the total liabilities and own funds of the institution. The European Banking Authority (the "EBA") was in charge of drafting regulatory technical standards on the criteria for determining MREL (the "MREL RTS"). On 3 July 2015 the EBA published the final draft MREL RTS. In application of Article 45(2) of the BRRD, the current version of the MREL RTS is set out in a Commission Delegated Regulation (C(2016) 2976 final) (the "Delegated Regulation") that was adopted by the Commission on 23 May 2016.

Following the publication of the BRRD II, the level of capital and eligible liabilities required under MREL will be set by the resolution authority for each bank (and/or group) based on certain criteria including systemic importance. Eligible liabilities may be senior or subordinated, provided, among other requirements, that they have a remaining maturity of at least one year and, if governed by non-

EU law, they must be able to be written down or converted under that law (including through contractual provisions).

The scope of liabilities used to meet the MREL will include, in principle, all liabilities resulting from claims arising from ordinary unsecured creditors (non-subordinated liabilities) unless they do not meet specific eligibility criteria set out in the BRRD II. To enhance the resolvability of institutions and entities through an effective use of the bail-in tool, the SRB should be able to require that the MREL is met with own funds and other subordinated liabilities, in particular where there are clear indications that bailed-in creditors are likely to bear losses in resolution that would exceed the losses that they would incur under normal insolvency proceedings. Moreover the SRB should assess the need to require institutions and entities to meet the MREL with own funds and other subordinated liabilities where the amount of liabilities excluded from the application of the bail-in tool reaches a certain threshold within a class of liabilities that includes MREL eligible liabilities. Any subordination of debt instruments requested by the SRB for the MREL shall be without prejudice to the possibility to partly meet the TLAC minimum requirement with non-subordinated debt instruments in accordance with Regulation (EU) No 575/2013 as permitted by the TLAC standard. Specific requirements will apply to resolution groups with assets above EUR 100 billion (top-tier banks),

If the resolution authority finds that there could exist any obstacles to resolvability by the Issuer and/or the Group, a higher MREL requirement could be imposed. Any failure by the Issuer and/or the Group to comply with its MREL may have a material adverse effect on the Issuer's business, financial conditions and results of operations.

The interaction and differences between TLAC and MREL has not been settled

On 9 November 2015, the Financial Stability Board (the "FSB") issued at the global G20 level a final Total Loss-Absorbing Capacity ("TLAC") standard for global systemically important banks ("G-SIBs") (the "Final TLAC Standard"). The Final TLAC standard requires G-SIBs, including the Issuer, to maintain a ratio of its regulatory capital plus certain types of TLAC-eligible debt against its assets and exposures (potentially on a non risk-weighted basis and on a risk-weighted basis), which is significantly higher than current capital requirements under CRD IV. In accordance with the Final TLAC Standard, TLAC must be subordinated to excluded liabilities, such as insured deposits, preferred liabilities and liabilities that cannot be bailed in.

Therefore, currently G-SIBs, such as the Issuer, will be required to comply with two different sets of rules (the MREL requirement and the Final TLAC Standard) which have a similar aim: to ensure that a bank has sufficient loss absorbing capacity for bail-in tools to be deployed successfully if it were to enter resolution.

Even though TLAC and MREL pursue the same aim, their respective requirements and criteria differ. For example, (i) the FSB proposes a predetermined minimum TLAC requirement of between 16% (from 2019) and 18% (from 2022) of risk weighted assets ("RWAs") while the MREL is to be set on a case-by-case basis and does not include a common minimum requirement, (ii) structured notes are eligible as MREL but are not eligible for the purposes of the TLAC, and (iii) the FSB sets TLAC as a percentage of RWAs while the BRRD requires the MREL to be set as a percentage of own funds and total liabilities.

Following the publication of the BRRD II, the TLAC requirement will be integrated into the general MREL rules thereby avoiding duplication from the application of two parallel requirements ensuring that both requirements are met with largely similar instruments, with the exception of the subordination requirement, which will be institution-specific and determined by the resolution authority. Consequently institutions such as the Issuer will continue to be subject to an institution-specific MREL requirement, which may be higher than the requirement of the Final TLAC Standard, due to the introduction of limited adjustments to the existing MREL rules regarding inter alia the denominators used for measuring loss-absorbing capacity, the interaction with capital buffer requirements, disclosure of risks to investors, and their application in relation to different resolution strategies.

For institutions such as the issuer that are subject to the TLAC minimum requirement, the BRRD II provides consistency in the frequency of supervisory reporting and disclosure of the institution-specific MREL with those provided in Regulation (EU) No 575/2013 for the TLAC minimum requirement.

The Issuer may not realise objectives related to its targeted TLAC ratio

The Issuer has announced certain objectives relating to its targeted TLAC ratio. These objectives are forward looking statements that are based on a number of assumptions, many of which concern matters that are uncertain, including the future net income of the Group and assumptions about risk-weighted assets. Any of these assumptions could prove incorrect, and the actual financial results of the Issuer may vary for a number of reasons, including the materialisation of one or more of the risk factors in ("Risks Relating to the Issuer and its Industry"). If the Issuer fails to realise these objectives, it could have an adverse effect on the trading price of the Notes and/or the financial condition of the Issuer.

The Issuer is not required to redeem the Notes in the case of a Gross-Up Event

There is uncertainty as to whether gross-up obligations in general, including those under the terms and conditions of the Notes, are enforceable under French law. If any payment obligations under the Notes, including the obligations to pay additional amounts under Condition 6, are held illegal or unenforceable under French law, the Issuer will have the right, but not the obligation, to redeem the Notes. Accordingly, if the Issuer does not redeem the Notes upon the occurrence of a Gross-Up Event as defined in the Terms and Condition of the Notes, holders of such Notes may receive less than the full amount due, and the market value of such Notes will be adversely affected.

French Insolvency Law

Under French insolvency law holders of debt securities are automatically grouped into a single assembly of holders (the "Assembly") in order to defend their common interests if a safeguard procedure (procédure de sauvegarde), accelerated safeguard (procédure de sauvegarde accélérée), accelerated financial safeguard procedure (procédure de sauvegarde financière accélérée), or a judicial reorganisation procedure (procédure de redressement judiciaire) is opened in France with respect to the Issuer.

The Assembly comprises holders of all debt securities issued by the Issuer (including the Notes), whether or not under a debt issuance programme (such as a Medium Term Note programme) and regardless of their ranking and their governing law.

The Assembly deliberates on the proposed safeguard plan (projet de plan de sauvegarde), proposed accelerated safeguard (projet de plan de sauvegarde accélérée), proposed accelerated financial safeguard plan (projet de plan de sauvegarde financière accélérée) or proposed judicial reorganisation plan (projet de plan de redressement) applicable to the Issuer and may further agree to:

- partially or totally reschedule payments which are due and/or write-off debts and/or convert debts into equity (including with respect to amounts owed under the Notes); and/or
- establish an unequal treatment between holders of debt securities (including the Noteholders) as appropriate under the circumstances.

Decisions of the Assembly will be taken by a two-thirds majority (calculated as a proportion of the amount of debt securities held by the holders expressing a vote). No quorum is required to hold the Assembly.

For the avoidance of doubt, the provisions relating to the Masse, the General Meeting of Noteholders and Written Resolutions set out in the Conditions will not be applicable in these circumstances.

The ACPR must approve in advance the opening of any safeguard, judicial reorganisation or liquidation procedures.

Risks associated with the United Kingdom no longer being party to Brussels Recast Regulation

In the event of a "no-deal Brexit", Regulation (EU) No 1215/2012 (the "Brussels Recast Regulation"), which is the formal reciprocal regime on jurisdiction and judgments currently applied in the EU, will no longer apply in the United Kingdom. As a consequence, persons enforcing a judgment obtained before English courts will no longer automatically be able to benefit from the recognition of such judgment in EU courts (including France) under such Regulation. However, on 28 December 2018 the United Kingdom lodged its instrument of accession to the Hague Convention on Choice of Court Agreement 2005 (the "Hague Convention") meaning that the Hague Convention should become applicable in the UK as of or shortly after the United Kingdom leaves the European Union.

The Hague Convention is an international convention which requires contracting states to recognise and respect exclusive jurisdiction clauses in favour of other contracting states and to enforce related judgments. As France is already a party to the Hague Convention, judgments handed down by a UK court should be recognised and enforced under this Convention in France. However, the scope of the Hague Convention is limited to contracts containing exclusive jurisdiction clauses and there is no assurance that such judgments will be recognised on exactly the same terms and in the same conditions as under the Brussels Recast Regulation.

Investors who hold less than the Specified Denomination may be unable to sell their Notes and may be adversely affected if definitive Notes are subsequently required to be issued

In relation to any issue of Notes which have denominations consisting of a minimum Specified Denomination plus one or more higher integral multiples of another smaller amount, it is possible that such Notes may be traded in amounts in excess of the minimum Specified Denomination that are not integral multiples of such minimum Specified Denomination. In such a case a holder who, as a result of trading such amounts, holds an amount which is less than the minimum Specified Denomination in his account with the relevant clearing system would not be able to sell the remainder of such holding without first purchasing a principal amount of Notes at or in excess of the minimum Specified Denomination such that it is holding amounts equal to a Specified Denomination. Further, a holder who, as a result of trading such amounts, holds an amount which is less than the minimum Specified Denomination in his account with the relevant clearing system at the relevant time (i) may not be able to transfer such Notes and (ii) may not receive a definitive Note in respect of such holding (should definitive Notes be printed) and in each case would need to purchase a principal amount of Notes at or in excess of the minimum Specified Denomination such that its holding amounts to a Specified Denomination.

If such Notes in definitive form are issued, holders should be aware that definitive Notes which have a denomination that is not an integral multiple of the minimum Specified Denomination may be illiquid and difficult to trade.

Risk of Leveraged Exposure

Leverage involves the use of a number of financial techniques to increase the exposure to an Underlying Reference, and can therefore magnify both returns and losses. While the use of leverage allows for potential multiples of a return (assuming a return is achieved) when the Underlying Reference moves in the anticipated direction, it will conversely magnify losses when the Underlying Reference moves against expectations. If the leverage is negative, the maximum loss for investors shall be the amount of their initial investment in the Notes. If the relevant Notes include leverage, potential holders of such Notes should note that these Notes will involve a higher level of risk, and that whenever there are losses such losses will be higher (other things being equal) than those of a similar Note which is not leveraged. Investors should therefore only invest in leveraged Notes if they fully understand the effect of leverage.

The trading market for the Notes may be volatile and may be adversely impacted by many events

The market for debt securities is influenced by the economic and market conditions, interest rates, currency exchange rates and inflation rates in Europe and other industrialised countries and areas. There can be no assurance that events in France, Europe or elsewhere will not cause market volatility or that such volatility will not adversely affect the price of Notes or that economic and market conditions will not have any other adverse effect.

Option to Vary Settlement

If so indicated in the Final Terms, the Issuer may elect to vary the settlement of the Notes, by (i) in the case of cash settled notes, delivering or procuring delivery of the Entitlement instead of making payment of the Final Redemption Amount to the relevant Noteholders or (ii) in the case of physical delivery notes, making payment of the Final Redemption Amount to the relevant Noteholders instead of delivering or procuring delivery of the Entitlement.

The Notes may be redeemed prior to maturity

In the event that the Issuer would be required to pay additional amounts in respect of any Notes due to any withholding as provided in Condition 6 of the Terms and Conditions of the English Law Notes or Condition 6 of the Terms and Conditions of the French Law Notes, as the case may be, the Issuer may redeem all of the Notes then outstanding in accordance with the terms and conditions of the Notes.

In the event that one or more Events of Default (as defined in General Condition 8 of the Terms and Conditions of the English Law Notes or General Condition 8 of the Terms and Conditions of the French Law Notes, as the case may be) occur, the Notes (other than Senior Non Preferred Notes, Subordinated Notes and Senior Preferred Notes, the terms and conditions of which provide that no Events of Default are applicable) may become immediately due and repayable at their Early Redemption Amount. In addition, in the case of an Index Linked Note, Share Linked Note, Commodity Linked Note, Fund Linked Note, an ETI Linked Note or an Underlying Interest Rate Linked Note, if "Automatic Early Redemption Event" is specified as being applicable in the applicable Final Terms, on the occurrence of an Automatic Early Redemption Event the Notes will be automatically redeemed at their Automatic Early Redemption Amount. In the case of an Index Linked Note, Share Linked Note, Inflation Linked Note, Commodity Linked Note, an ETI Linked Note or an Underlying Interest Rate Linked Note, if an Additional Disruption Event and/or an Optional Additional Disruption Event occurs and "Delayed Redemption on the Occurrence of Additional Disruption Event and/or Optional Additional Disruption Event" is not specified in the applicable Final Terms, the Issuer may redeem the Notes early.

Redemption at the option of the Issuer

If the Issuer has the right to redeem any Notes at its option (subject, for Subordinated Notes and Senior Non Preferred Notes or, in the case of Senior Preferred Notes, if "Prior approval of the Relevant Regulator" is specified as applicable in the applicable Final Terms, to certain conditions), this may limit the market value of the Notes concerned and an investor may not be able to reinvest the redemption proceeds in a manner which achieves a similar effective return.

The Final Terms for a particular issue of Notes may provide for early redemption at the option of the Issuer. Such right of termination is often provided for securities in periods of high interest rates. If the market interest rates decrease, the risk to Noteholders that the Issuer will exercise its right to redeem the Notes early increases. As a consequence, the yields received upon redemption may be lower than expected, and the redeemed face amount of the Notes may be lower than the purchase price for the Notes paid by the Noteholder. As a consequence, the Noteholder may not receive the total amount of the capital invested. In addition, investors that choose to reinvest monies they receive through an early redemption may be able to do so only in securities with a lower yield than the redeemed Notes. As a consequence, the Noteholder may lose some or all of its investment.

Credit ratings assigned to the Issuer or any Notes may not reflect all the risks associated with an investment in those Notes

In general, European regulated investors are restricted under Regulation (EC) No. 1060/2009 (as amended) (the "CRA Regulation") from using credit ratings for regulatory purposes, unless such ratings are issued by a credit rating agency established in the EU and registered under the CRA Regulation (and such registration has not been withdrawn or suspended subject to transitional provisions that apply in certain circumstances). Such general restriction will also apply in the case of credit ratings issued by non-EU credit rating agencies, unless the relevant credit ratings are endorsed by an EU-registered credit rating agency or the relevant non-EU rating agency is certified in accordance with the CRA Regulation (and such endorsement action or certification, as the case may be, has not been withdrawn or suspended, subject to transitional provisions that apply in certain circumstances). The list of registered and certified rating agencies published by the European Securities and Markets Authority ("ESMA") on its website in accordance with the CRA Regulation is not conclusive evidence of the status of the relevant rating agency included in such list, as there may be delays between certain supervisory measures being taken against a relevant rating agency and the publication of the updated ESMA list. Certain information with respect to the credit rating agencies and ratings is set out in this Base Prospectus.

Ratings downgrades could occur as a result of, among other causes, changes in the ratings methodologies used by credit rating agencies. Changes in credit rating agencies' views of the level of implicit sovereign support for European banks and their groups are likely to lead to ratings downgrades.

If credit rating agencies perceive there to be adverse changes in the factors affecting the Issuer's credit rating, including by virtue of change to applicable ratings methodologies, the credit rating agencies may downgrade, suspend or withdraw the ratings assigned to the Issuer and/or its securities. In particular, Moody's, Standard & Poor's and Fitch each published revised methodologies applicable to bank ratings (including the Issuer) during 2015 which resulted in credit rating actions being taken on the Issuer's ratings. Further revisions to ratings methodologies and actions on the Issuer's ratings by the credit rating agencies may occur in the future.

The credit rating assigned to the Notes may be reduced or withdrawn

A security rating is not a recommendation to buy, sell or hold securities and may be subject to suspension, reduction or withdrawal at any time. In particular, such suspension, reduction or withdrawal may result from a change in the rating methodology of the assigning rating agency.

A credit rating reduction may result in a reduction in the trading value of the Notes

The value of the Notes is expected to be affected, in part, by investors' general appraisal of the creditworthiness of the Issuer. Such perceptions are generally influenced by the ratings accorded to the outstanding securities of BNPP by standard statistical rating services, such as Moody's, Standard & Poor's, DBRS and Fitch France. A reduction in the rating, if any, accorded to outstanding debt securities of BNPP by one of these or other rating agencies could result in a reduction in the trading value of the Notes.

Withholding tax

The Notes may be subject to withholding taxes in circumstances where the Issuer is not obliged to make gross up payments and this would result in holders receiving less interest than expected and could significantly adversely affect their return on the Notes.

EU Financial Transactions Tax ("FTT")

On 14 February 2013, the European Commission issued proposals, including a draft Directive (the "Commission's Proposal") for a FTT to be adopted in certain participating EU Member States (including Belgium, Germany, Estonia, Greece, Spain, France, Italy, Austria, Portugal, Slovenia and Slovakia). However, Estonia has since stated that it will not participate. If the Commission's Proposal was adopted, the FTT would be a tax primarily on "financial institutions" (which could include the Issuer) in relation to "financial transactions" (which would include the conclusion or modifications of derivative contracts and the purchase and sale of financial instruments).

Under the Commission's Proposal, the FTT could apply in certain circumstances to persons both within and outside of the participating Member States. Generally, it would apply where at least one party is a financial institution, and at least one party is established in a participating Member State. A financial institution may be, or be deemed to be, "established" in a participating Member State in a broad range of circumstances, including (a) by transacting with a person established in a participating Member State or (b) where the financial instrument which is subject to the dealings is issued in a participating Member State.

The FTT may give rise to tax liabilities for the Issuer with respect to certain transactions if it is adopted based on the Commission's proposal. Examples of such transactions are the conclusion of a derivative contract in the context of the Issuer's hedging arrangements or the purchase or sale of securities (such as the Notes) or the physical settlement of a Note. The Issuer is, in certain circumstances, able to pass on any such tax liabilities to Noteholders of the Notes and therefore this may result in investors receiving less than expected in respect of the Notes. It should also be noted that the FTT could be payable in relation to relevant transactions by investors in respect of the Notes (including secondary market transactions) if conditions for a charge to arise are satisfied and the FTT is adopted based on the Commission's Proposal. Primary market transactions referred to in Article 5(c) of Regulation EC No 1287/2006 are expected to be exempt. There is however some uncertainty in relation to the intended scope of this exemption for certain money market instruments and structured issues.

However, the FTT proposal remains subject to negotiation between participating Member States. It may therefore be altered prior to implementation, the timing of which remains unclear. Additional EU Member States may decide to participate and/or participating EU Member States may decide to withdraw. Prospective holders of Notes are advised to seek their own professional advice in relation to the FTT.

U.S. Dividend Equivalent Withholding

Section 871(m) of the U.S. Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as amended causes a 30 per cent. withholding tax on payments to non-U.S. holders in respect of amounts attributable to U.S. source dividends that are paid or "deemed paid" under certain financial instruments if certain conditions are met (such instruments, "Specified Securities"). If the Issuer or any withholding agent determines that withholding is required, neither the Issuer nor any withholding agent will be required to pay any additional amounts with respect to amounts so withheld. Prospective investors should refer to the section "U.S. Dividend Equivalent Withholding".

For purposes of withholding under the U.S. Foreign Account Tax Compliance Act, commonly known as FACTA, Specified Securities are subject to a different grandfathering rule than other Notes. Prospective investors should refer to the section "Foreign Account Tax Compliance Act".

No Gross-Up in respect of certain Series of Notes

If the applicable Final Terms specify that Condition 6(d) of the Terms and Conditions of the English Law Notes or Condition 6(e) of the Terms and Conditions of the French Law Notes is applicable, the Issuer is not obliged to gross up any payments in respect of the Notes and shall not be liable for or otherwise obliged to pay any tax, duty, withholding or other payment which may arise as a result of the ownership, transfer, presentation and surrender for payment, or enforcement of any Note and all payments made by the Issuer shall be made subject to any such tax, duty, withholding or other payment which may be required to be made, paid, withheld or deducted.

Potential Conflicts of Interest

- (i) Certain entities within the Group or its Affiliates (including, if applicable, any Dealer) may also engage in trading activities (including hedging activities) relating to the Underlying Reference and other instruments or derivative products based on or relating to the Underlying Reference of any Notes for their proprietary accounts or for other accounts under their management.
- (ii) BNPP and its Affiliates (including, if applicable, any Dealer) may also issue other derivative instruments in respect of the Underlying Reference.
- (iii) BNPP and its Affiliates (including, if applicable, any Dealer) may also act as underwriter in connection with future offerings of shares or other securities relating to an issue of Notes or may act as financial adviser to certain companies or companies whose shares or other securities are included in a basket or in a commercial banking capacity for such companies.
- (iv) BNPP and its Affiliates (including, if applicable, any Dealer) may act in a number of different capacities in relation to an underlying index, including, but not limited to, issuer of the constituents of the index, index sponsor or calculation agent.
- (v) In respect of ETI Linked Notes and Fund Linked Notes:
  - (I) the Issuer or one or more of its Affiliates may from time to time engage in business with the relevant ETI or Fund, as the case may be, or companies in which an ETI or Fund, as the case may be, invests, including among other things, extending loans to, or making investments in, or providing advisory services to them, including merger and acquisition advisory services, engaging in activities that may include prime brokerage business, financing transactions or entry into derivative transactions;
  - (II) the ETI or Fund (each as defined below), as applicable, may pay a portion of its fees to the Issuer or any of its Affiliates for the provision of such services;
  - (III) in the course of this business, the Issuer the Calculation Agent and any of their respective Affiliates may acquire non-public information about an ETI or a Fund, as applicable, or any companies, funds or reference assets in which an ETI or a Fund invests and the Issuer the Calculation Agent or any of their respective Affiliates may publish research reports about them. This research may be modified from time to time without notice and may express opinions or provide recommendations that are inconsistent with purchasing or holding ETI Linked Notes or Fund Linked Notes, as applicable. Such activities could present certain conflicts of interest, could influence the prices of such shares, Fund Shares, ETI Interests or other securities and could adversely affect the value of such Notes;

- (vi) In respect of Notes linked to an underlying custom index, various legal entities within the Group may undertake the role of issuer of the Notes, calculation agent of the Notes, sponsor of the underlying custom index and calculation agent of the underlying custom index. BNP Paribas has policies and procedures to identify, consider and manage potential conflicts of interest which this situation may potentially generate;
- (vii) The Calculation Agent may be an affiliate of the Issuer or the Issuer itself and consequently, potential conflicts of interest may exist between the Calculation Agent and Noteholders, including with respect to certain determinations and judgments that the Calculation Agent must make, including whether a Market Disruption Event, a Settlement Disruption Event or Credit Event (each, as defined below) has occurred; and
- (viii) In respect of Notes linked to an Underlying Interest Rate or Notes which pay a floating rate of interest (including Resettable Notes), the Issuer and their affiliates play a variety of roles, including acting as Calculation Agent and potentially as determination agent. In performing these duties, the economic interests of the Calculation Agent, the determination agent and other affiliates of the Issuer are potentially adverse to the interests of Noteholders. The Calculation Agent may determine, among other things, the reference rate (and possibly an alternative to such reference rate in case the relevant benchmark is discontinued) or any interest determination date and the relevant rate of interest. The Calculation Agent may also appoint a determination agent (which may be the Issuer or an affiliate of the Issuer or the Calculation Agent) to determine a replacement benchmark, as well as any necessary changes to the applicable business day convention, the definition of business day, the interest determination date, the day count fraction and any method for calculating the replacement reference rate, as the case may be, including any adjustment needed to make such replacement reference rate comparable to the relevant reference rate if the relevant reference rate is discontinued.

The occurrence of a FX Settlement Disruption Event may lead to postponement or payment in an alternative currency

If "FX Settlement Disruption" applies to the Notes and the Calculation Agent determines acting in good faith and in a commercially reasonable manner on the second Business Day prior to the relevant due date for payment (the "FX Disrupted Payment Date") that a FX Settlement Disruption Event has occurred and is subsisting, investors should be aware that payments of principal and/or of interest (if applicable) may (i) occur at a different time than expected and that no additional amount of interest will be payable in respect of any delay in payment of principal and/or interest and (ii) be made in USD (the "FX Settlement Disruption Currency"). In certain circumstances, the rate of exchange used to convert the Specified Currency into the relevant FX Settlement Disruption Currency, may not be the market rate of exchange for such currencies, and in some cases, may be determined by the Calculation Agent acting in good faith and in a commercially reasonable manner.

Risks relating to Notes denominated in CNY

Where the Notes are denominated in CNY, prospective investors in the Notes should be aware that CNY is not completely freely convertible at present. The government of the People's Republic of China ("PRC") continues to regulate conversion between CNY and foreign currencies despite the significant reduction over the years by the PRC government of control over routine foreign exchange transactions under current accounts. However, remittance of Renminbi by foreign investors into the PRC for purposes such as capital contributions, known as capital account items, is generally only permitted upon obtaining specific approvals from the relevant authorities on a case-by-case basis and subject to a strict monitoring system. Regulations in the PRC on the remittance of Renminbi into the PRC for settlement of capital account items is developing gradually.

Although from 1 October 2016, Renminbi has been added to the Special Drawing rights basket created by the International Monetary Fund and policies further improving accessibility to Renminbi to settle cross-border transactions in foreign currencies were implemented by the People's Bank of China in 2018, there is no assurance that the PRC government will liberalise the control over cross-border CNY remittances in the future or that new PRC regulations will not be promulgated in the future which have the effect of restricting the remittance of CNY into or outside the PRC.

The current size of CNY-denominated financial assets outside the PRC is limited. Although it is expected that the offshore CNY market will continue to grow in depth and size, its growth is subject to many constraints as a result of PRC laws and regulations on foreign exchange. The limited availability of CNY outside the PRC may affect the liquidity of the Notes. To the extent the Issuer is required to source CNY in the offshore market to service the Notes, there is no assurance that the Issuer will be able to source such CNY on satisfactory terms, if at all.

There can be no assurance that access to CNY funds for the purposes of making payments under the Notes or generally will remain available or will not become restricted. The value of CNY against foreign currencies fluctuates and is affected by changes in the PRC's and international political and economic conditions and by many other factors. As a result, foreign exchange fluctuations between an investor's home currency and CNY may affect investors who intend to convert gains or losses from the sale or redemption of the Notes into their home currency.

Where the Notes are denominated in CNY, all payments to investors in respect of the Notes will be made solely by transfer to a CNY bank account maintained in the CNY Settlement Centre (for this purpose, excluding the PRC) in accordance with prevailing rules and procedures. The Issuer cannot be required to make payment by any other means (including in any other currency or by transfer to a bank account in the PRC unless otherwise specified in the applicable Final Terms).

The PRC government has gradually liberalised the regulation of interest rates in recent years. Further liberalisation may increase interest rate volatility. With respect to any Notes which carry a fixed interest rate, the value of such Notes will vary with the fluctuations in the CNY interest rates. If a Noteholder tries to sell such Notes before their maturity, he may receive an offer that is less than the amount he has invested.

The occurrence of a CNY Payment Disruption Event may lead to postponement or payment in an alternative currency

If the applicable Final Terms specify that "CNY Payment Disruption Event" is applicable to the Notes, and the Calculation Agent determines acting in good faith and in a commercially reasonable manner that a CNY Payment Disruption Event has occurred and is continuing and such event is material in relation to the Issuer's payment obligations under the Notes, unless otherwise stated in the applicable Final Terms, the relevant Affected Payment Date may be postponed to a later date or the Issuer's payment obligations under the Notes may be replaced with the obligation to pay the Equivalent Amount of the relevant Interest Amount, Final Redemption Amount or other amount payable (if applicable) on the relevant Affected Payment Date or the relevant CNY Payment Disruption Cut-off Date, as the case may be.

If the relevant Affected Payment Date is postponed, and if the Calculation Agent determines acting in good faith and in a commercially reasonable manner that the CNY Payment Disruption Event is still continuing on the CNY Payment Disruption Cut-off Date, then the Issuer's payment obligations under the Notes will be replaced with the obligation to pay the relevant Equivalent Amount on the CNY Payment Disruption Cut-off Date.
